GARBAGE HAULERS GRANTED INJUNCTION

Iran's Premier To Quit As Result of Slayings Of Americans in Desert

Third Yank's Body Is Found By Searchers

Woman Reported Shot, Abandoned 2 Miles From Ambush Scene

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Sources close to the Iranian government said today Prime Minister Hussein Ala has told associates he will resign as result of the desert massacre of three Americans.

These informants said the prime minister's resignation will be announced Wednesday, after departure of West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, now in Tehran as a government guest, so as "to prevent embarrassment" to Adenauer.

The sources said Dr. Menecheher Eghbal, vigorous president of Tehran University, court minister and associate of the Shah will be proposed as new premier.

The change reportedly was to give the government a stronger hand in dealing with banditry and tribal defiance of the government.

Earlier, the United States reported that its Point Four Assistance program in southeast Iran has been suspended until the killers are caught.

The American victims of the bandits were Mrs. Anita Carroll and her husband, Kevin, a U. S. Point Four program official; Brewster Wilson, specialist for the Far East Foundation.

MRS. CARROLL'S body was found Sunday two miles from the (Continued on Page Two)

Ike Returns From Farm At Slower Pace

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower was back at the White House today after a slow drive from Gettysburg, Pa.

Returning Sunday from a week-end rest at his farm, Eisenhower's car kept to the posted speed limits throughout most of the 85-mile trip.

When he rode to Gettysburg Friday, his car, driven by a Secret Service man, moved at speeds of 70 to 75 miles an hour much of the way. This was well above the speed limit.

Newsman, following the President in several cars, had no trouble keeping up on the return trip. But on Friday, they were flagged down to the 55-mile-an-hour speed limit by police in Montgomery County, Md. Later they had to step up to as much as 100 miles an hour to overtake the President.

The homeward drive was made over a different route than was followed Friday. The President's car halted for every stop sign and red light, although a Pennsylvania state trooper waved the party through one red light.

However, some cars carrying White House personnel and newsmen had to go through red lights and stop signs to keep up.

HST Doesn't Want Kin As Namesake

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman said today that if the grandchild he expects in July is a boy he does not want the baby named for him.

"It would be a handicap all his life," Truman chuckled during an early morning walk.

"I have a nephew named after me, a sergeant in World War II, and this name almost deviled him to death. The worst thing in the world is to have a President in the family."

Truman's daughter, Margaret, wife of Clifton Daniel, who works for the New York Times, expects her first child about July.

New Labor Laws Sought By Solons

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate investigation of finagling by Teamsters Union officials is spurring demands that Congress act to safeguard the rights of the laboring man.

Proposals ranged from greater protection of "democratic processes" in unions to closer policing of union funds.

There was some talk that the Senate probe might build a fire under a drive for enactment of more state "right-to-work" laws, which outlaw the union shop. Eighteen states already have them. The possibility was raised too of a federal "right-to-work" law.

Debate arose over whether the disclosures would set back the labor movement. Senators Ives (R-NY) and Kefauver (D-Tenn) said

Israel Ready To Discuss Arab Problem

JERUSALEM (AP) — A Foreign Ministry spokesman today said Israel is always ready to discuss compensation payments for Arab refugees from the Palestine war but there is "no connection whatsoever" between the refugees and the Suez Canal.

The spokesman was commenting on reports from Cairo that Egyptian President Nasser had told visiting American newsmen Egypt would permit Israel to use the canal and the Gulf of Aqaba only if the refugees "are given back their rights and land."

Israel "will implement her right to free passage for her ships through the Suez Canal at a suitable occasion," the spokesman said. A ministry official said Sunday any Arab move to impede Israel's shipping in the canal or the Gulf of Aqaba would be considered an "act of war."

That official said of Nasser's reported condition:

"We are not interested in the pretenses Nasser puts out from time to time to justify his determination to interfere with the freedom of navigation of Israeli ships," a ministry official said.

Israel has announced she will send ships flying the Israeli flag through the gulf as a test and will also test Egypt's ban on shipping in the canal. Foreign-flag ships chartered by Israel are already sailing unmolested through the gulf, which is still under protection of the U. N.

The Foreign Ministry also declared a reported suggestion for a security zone extending more than 2,000 feet on both sides of the Gaza Strip border would not be acceptable to Israel.

Financier, 10, Sees Quick Riches Fade

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — For a while, Kenny Green, 10, thought the stock market was too good to be true. And, alas, it was.

Kenney, who lives in suburban Elkins Park, saved up $100 earned by doing errands, shoveling snow and other chores. Through his father, he invested the money, buying five shares of stock.

Saturday, his first dividend check arrived. It was for $120. One of the company's check-writing machines apparently goofed since the dividend should have been just one dollar.

Today the young financier is mailing back the check.

Accidents Kill 14

COLUMBUS (AP) — Fourteen persons died accidentally in Ohio during the weekend. Of the total 12 died in traffic accidents.

Terror Wave Costs Lives Of 4 Persons

Couple Is Run Over By Man Later Killed
In Police Gun Battle

MARION (AP) — A young father's bitter resentment against his child's grandparents erupted Saturday night in a wave of terror that cost four lives.

Police said Manfred Draper, 27, ran down with his auto and killed the grandparents, Albert Pollock, 41, and Pollock's wife, Sylvia, 42. Shortly after, Draper and State Patrolman Robert E. Karmizki, 35, were killed in a gun battle.

Draper's fury against the Pollocks resulted from his belief that they were "poisoning the mind" of his daughter, Martha Elizabeth, 6, against him, police said.

The child's mother, Marilyn Huffman, 23, daughter of Mrs. Pollock, said she was never married to Draper but had lived with him before Martha was born. She said Draper had threatened her because he believed she and the Pollocks were keeping him from seeing the little girl.

Police said Draper ran the Pollocks down as they walked through an alley late Saturday night on their way home from Marion's downtown section.

THEY SAID after the couple fell, Draper drove his car around a block, re-entered the alley and ran over Pollock again.

He sped off but his car had a blowout. After an unsuccessful attempt (Continued on Page Two)

Quads In Texas Get Deed To Home

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — The Budget quadruplets today were official owners of their home and the adjoining property, a gift from their fellow citizens.

The quads — Joan, Joyce, Jeanette and Geraldine — Sunday received a deed to the property. The deed has been held in trust under an agreement with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Ellis Budgett, until they reached 18. They were born Feb. 1, 1939.

The home was built in 1941 by community contributions.

Garden Show Opens

TOLEDO (AP) — The seventh annual Northwestern Ohio Garden and Flower Show, Tuesday through Sunday in Civic Auditorium, will feature a replica of a Cotswald Cottage from England and a French garden.

OFFICIALS of South Shore hospital in Chicago are asking for blood donors for James Siambones, 12 (left) and his 14-year-old brother John, both of whom are suffering from hemophilia, a condition in which blood does not readily coagulate. Each has been receiving plasma at the rate of one pint every two hours. Both have been bleeding steadily for almost three weeks.

Pity Poor Ted Williams, He's Soured On Everybody

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The New Orleans States said today Boston Red Sox slugger Ted Williams spat at the name of the late Sen. Robert A. Taft, former President Harry S. Truman, the Marine Corps and the "whole damn government."

"You think Sen. Taft was a great man?" the States said Williams asked Executive Sports Editor Crozet Duplantier. "Well, here's what I think of him." Duplantier said Williams then spat on the floor of the lobby at Moisant Airport shortly before he departed for Sarasota, Fla.

"He was afraid to even try to do anything for me. But he wouldn't mind going to bat for some other guy. But not me. I was too important," Williams was quoted as saying. He accused the late Ohio senator of not helping him get out of Marine service during the Korean War.

The player was in New Orleans with the Red Sox Sunday for an exhibition baseball game with the Class AA New Orleans Pelicans.

Duplantier asked Williams if he had any resentment toward the Marine Corp, which interrupted his baseball career twice, calling him up for service during World War II and the Korean War.

"You're damned right I do," the States said Williams answered. "Resentment against the Marine Corps and the whole damned government."

After spitting at the name of Taft, the States said Williams then said:

"And the same goes for Harry Truman. And the whole United States government. The whole damned thing is phony."

Duplantier asked if Williams was still in the Marine Reserves.

"Boy, you know I'm not," the States said Williams answered. "When I got out this last time they gave me a chance to pick up that paper (his discharge) I grabbed it."

Old Jamestown Opens Festival

JAMESTOWN, Va. (AP) — The state of Virginia opened an eight-month historical festival today on this tiny James River island where, 3½ centuries ago, the New World was born.

A nearly perfect replica of the first permanent settlement in the New World has been built.

Offshore lie duplicates of the three flaxen-sailed ships which, in 1607, brought the 105 colonists from England—the Susan Constant, the Godspeed and the Discovery.

There are duplicates too of the palisaded fort built by the settlers for protection from the Indians.

Another Soybean Price Hike Unlikely

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department advised farmers today that last summer's big jump in price of soybeans is unlikely to be repeated this year.

The reason, it said, is that supplies are considerably larger. On March 1 stocks were 30 per cent larger than a year earlier.

Federal Payroll Hits New High

Civilian Aides Cost
$1 Billion In Month

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Byrd (D-Va.) reported today the federal payroll hit an all-time peak in January of $1 billion a month.

Byrd, who heads the Senate House Committee on Reduction of Non-essential Expenditures, said regular civilian workers for the government drew $989,549,000 and payroll funds for foreign nationals employed by U. S. agencies abroad totaled $16,700,000.

"This total was reported despite a decrease in employment which occurred during the same month," Byrd said.

He said payrolls for the first seven months of fiscal year 1957, totaled $6.6 billion for a monthly average of $946 million.

Byrd has contended that one of the quickest ways to cut Eisenhower's $71.8 billion budget is to reduce the number of federal employees.

The senator said total civilian employment reached 2,390,507 in February, a 3,492 increase over January. He did not list the overall cost figure for February, a shorter month.

At 109, His Eye For Girls Bright

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — William H. Lundy's eye for pretty girls is as good as ever.

The 109-year-old Confederate, one of three surviving Civil War veterans, has been flirting with nurses at Baptist Hospital where he underwent a gall bladder operation Saturday.

His condition is reported "fine, very satisfactory." His nurse added that he's been flirting with all of us.

His doctor said he should be able to return to his home at Laurel Hill, Fla., in about a week.

Heart Attack Kills Gene Lockhart, 66

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Gene Lockhart, a versatile performer who was seen or heard in a half dozen entertainment mediums during his 60-year career, died of a heart seizure Sunday.

The pudgy-faced actor, director, author and composer was perhaps best known for his character roles in the movies. He appeared in more than 300 films.

Lockhart, 66, had been hospitalized here only Saturday night, after complaining of severe pains. He had not been in apparent bad health.

Independents Push Drive On New Ordinance

Bidinger Continues; His Own Operation;
City Dump Still Open

The long battle over Circleville's controversial garbage ordinance reached a showdown stage today when an injunction, temporarily restraining enforcement of the new law, was served upon George H. Bidinger and the city of Circleville.

Under provisions of the ordinance which was scheduled to go into effect today, Bidinger holds an exclusive contract to collect garbage and rubbish in the city.

The temporary injunction was granted by Common Pleas Judge William D. Radcliff after a petition charging that the ordinance was "unreasonable, arbitrary and unconstitutional" was filed by Carl Riffle, D. E. Phillips, Russell Cupp, Charles Lemaster, Albert Crosby, Herman Turner, Lon Russell, Charles Smith, and John Wilkens.

All of the plaintiffs are independent garbage haulers who would be forced to stop their businesses under the ordinance.

MEANWHILE, Bidinger the man who has been in the center of the fight between the independent haulers and the city, said after being served with the injunction papers that he was going to go right on with "collections as scheduled."

Officials said it was their understanding he could do this as long as no effort was made to enforce the new ordinance. Bidinger has one truck in operation now which he will use to service those customers who have already signed up with him.

The independent haulers alleged in their petition that the ordinance which grants Bidinger the exclusive right "to collect, transport and dispose of garbage and to make contracts for the same with individual householders and commercial operators . . . delegates to the defendant, Bidinger, legislative authority which can only legally be exercised by the Council of the City of Circleville."

The petition also alleges that the contract between Bidinger and the city does not conform to the original bid made by Bidinger.

Cincinnati Kills 'Unfaithful' Wife

CINCINNATI (AP) — Police plan to file charges today against Robert Lee Graham, 31, who admitted he killed his wife because she was "running around with other men."

Mrs. Evelyn Graham, 27, mother of six children, was shot. Investigators said Graham waited at home with a gun after his wife left him in a cafe late Saturday night.

Graham struck his wife, who fell on a couch. Graham put the revolver to her head and fired six times.

The six children, ranging in age up to nine years, slept through the shooting. They were turned over to grandparents.

Columbus Gets Big Bill On Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has billed Frederick E. Jones, a Columbus, Ohio, insurance executive, for $147,987.29 in claimed back income taxes.

This was disclosed today in Jones' petition to the U. S. Tax Court disputing at least $15,000 of this amount.

It is the contention of the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) that Jones, from 1932 through 1955, took deductions on his returns that were incorrect. No question of fraud is involved.

In addition, IRS said Jones failed to report certain income, including $5,408 in dividends from the Jackson Iron & Steel Co.

Too Much 'Fun'

TOLEDO (AP) — After a 90-mile an hour chase by police, 18-year-old Bernard Burdaz stopped his auto and surrendered Sunday. A 16-year-old companion was found unconscious beside Burdaz. He had fainted from the excitement.

New Labor Laws Sought By Solons

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate investigation of finagling by Teamsters Union officials is spurring demands that Congress act to safeguard the rights of the laboring man.

Proposals ranged from greater protection of "democratic processes" in unions to closer policing of union funds.

There was some talk that the Senate probe might build a fire under a drive for enactment of more state "right-to-work" laws, which outlaw the union shop. Eighteen states already have them. The possibility was raised too of a federal "right-to-work" law.

Debate arose over whether the disclosures would set back the labor movement. Senators Ives (R-NY) and Kefauver (D-Tenn) said they feared this would happen. Secretary of Labor Mitchell disputed this view.

Sen. McClellan (D-Ark), chairman of the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee, said Sunday "I wouldn't, as a result of these hearings, simply undertake to pass laws of reprisal."

THE COMMITTEE, in recess for a few weeks, has undertaken a search for evidence of racketeering in both labor and management. So far, it has concentrated on activities of certain leaders of the giant Teamsters Union.

It has heard testimony that union funds were used to finance real estate investments and to pay for racing stables, lavish homes and other personal outlays of these officials.

McClellan said the hearings so far "clearly" indicate to him that "there should be federal legislation to insure the democratic processes in unions" and to insure "the security of their funds so they cannot be dissipated or misappropriated or stolen or diverted to any other purpose than union purposes."

Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz) said legislation is needed to put some teeth in Taft-Hartley law provisions dealing with union reports of their finances.

Sen. Douglas (D-Ill) said he favors public disclosure of union welfare and pension funds "to clean up this mess."

Secretary Mitchell said an administration bill to allow publication of union financial reports will be pressed again this year.

Both Mitchell and Ives indicated concern that the rackets probe disclosures might give impetus to state "right-to-work" laws. Such laws bar the union shop, under which a worker must join a union within a certain time after he goes on the job.

Mitchell restated his opposition to such laws, saying he believes employers and unions should have the right to bargain for some form of "union security."

Red Cross Fund Campaign Falters

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Red Cross spokesman said today the organization's fund-raising picture is "the blackest since before World War II" because of drains of recent disasters.

A month-long fund raising drive through March brought in only 65 per cent of the $95 million the Red Cross hoped to raise.

Appeals have been made to Red Cross chapters to continue the drive to reach the goal.

Stopping an enemy at 'the brink' was the best way of avoiding war," he wrote.

"Through public warnings, reinforced by messages instructing Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen in Moscow to make the meaning plain to the Kremlin's leaders, the President served notice on Russia that the United States would use force to prevent any such move."

Concerning the three other "brinks," Beal also wrote:

1. Eisenhower decided, returning from his 1952 Korea trip aboard the cruiser Helena, to "press for a truce; but if that failed, to fight the war to win" and to use tactical atomic weapons, blockade the China coast and block China mainland targets.

2. Eisenhower and Dulles decided to intervene militarily in Indochina "under certain conditions" but "the conditions were not met."

3. Eisenhower spurned a suggestion by then British Foreign Minister Anthony Eden to swap the off-China islands of Quemoy and Matsu for a Communist cease-fire agreement, then sent a "personal assurance" to Nationalist China's President Chiang Kai-shek on Formosa. This "personal letter" satisfied Chiang, Beal said, "that the United States would help defend Quemoy and Matsu."

Beal said "repeated and accumulated unfriendly gestures" by Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser preceded Dulles' decision to withdraw a U. S. offer of help to build the high Aswan Dam on the Nile River.

Dulles withdrew the offer July 19 and Nasser responded a week later by seizing the Suez Canal.

Beal wrote that Dulles felt he needed a time, place and "grand-scale" opportunity to demonstrate to the world that even U. S. patience could be exhausted.

Saying Nasser had become "seemingly more and more pro-Communist," Beal wrote of events last July:

"Nasser was making it look as though the United States could be played for a sucker. For Dulles, a moment of Cold War climax had come."

"It was necessary to call Russia's hand in the game of economic competition."

"It was necessary to demonstrate to friendly nations that U. S. tolerance could not brook the kind of insult Nasser presented."

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — "How are they? Are they going to live?" Chief of Detectives Verne Starmer answered the telephone at the Ossie Woolridge home.

Woolridge, 57-year-old plumbing and heating installer, was dead. So was Mrs. Woolridge, 45; DeJores, 11, youngest of their two daughters; and Paul, 6, youngest of their four sons. Doris, 12, was shot through the neck and side, critically wounded.

"You better give yourself up," Starmer told the voice on the phone — a "Mr. Smith." It was a young voice.

So the police picked up 14-year-old Daniel Woolridge at a theater where remorse had overtaken him as he watched a detective thriller.

Prosecutor Frank Connett Jr. said the sobbing boy signed a statement saying he "suddenly went crazy."

A quiet Sunday dinner at the Woolridge home, after Sunday school at the Riverside Presbyterian Church, had erupted in a fuss between Daniel and his parents.

Daniel wanted to go for a ride. His father said it was too cold. Daniel stormed out of the house but returned in a few minutes. He asked his mother to give back the hunting knife she had taken away from him. She had thrown it away.

Daniel sat down for a moment. Then he got a pump action .22 rifle and started his carnage.

He said the budget includes nearly $2 billion for spending on 41 new and expanded programs.

He called it a "spending spree that will continue inflation and increase the cost of living."

The House has been actively cutting into appropriations bills with the aim of holding activities to the current levels and preventing increases proposed in the new budget.

House leaders are seeking to cut enough to permit a possible tax reduction effective the first of next year, but Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) said he doesn't think a tax cut vote this year would be wise.

He said he still thinks Congress will cut $3 billion from Eisenhower's requests. He urged sharp cuts in foreign aid.

All of the plaintiffs are independent garbage haulers who would be forced to stop their businesses under the ordinance.

MEANWHILE, Bidinger the man who has been in the center of the fight between the independent haulers and the city, said after being served with the injunction papers that he was going to go right on with "collections as scheduled."

Officials said it was their understanding he could do this as long as no effort was made to enforce the new ordinance. Bidinger has one truck in operation now which he will use to service those customers who have already signed up with him.

The independent haulers alleged in their petition that the ordinance which grants Bidinger the exclusive right "to collect, transport and dispose of garbage and to make contracts for the same with individual householders and commercial operators . . . delegates to the defendant, Bidinger, legislative authority which can only legally be exercised by the Council of the City of Circleville."

The petition also alleges that the contract between Bidinger and the city does not conform to the original bid made by Bidinger.

Cincinnati Kills 'Unfaithful' Wife

CINCINNATI (AP) — Police plan to file charges today against Robert Lee Graham, 31, who admitted he killed his wife because she was "running around with other men."

Mrs. Evelyn Graham, 27, mother of six children, was shot.

Investigators said Graham waited at home with a gun after his wife left him in a cafe late Saturday night.

Graham struck his wife, who fell on a couch. Graham put the revolver to her head and fired six times.

The six children, ranging in age up to nine years, slept through the shooting. They were turned over to grandparents.

Columbusite Gets Big Bill On Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has billed Frederick E. Jones, a Columbus, Ohio, insurance executive, for $147,987.29 in claimed back income taxes.

This was disclosed today in Jones' petition to the U. S. Tax Court disputing at least $15,000 of this amount.

It is the contention of the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) that Jones, from 1952 through 1955, took deductions on his returns that were incorrect. No question of fraud is involved.

In addition, IRS said Jones failed to report certain income, including $5,408 in dividends from the Jackson Iron & Steel Co.

Too Much 'Fun'

March Rainfall Here Ends With Large Deficit

Despite the soggy setting afforded by today's early drizzle, March rainfall in the Circleville area ended two and one-half inches short of what it should have been.

Today's rain came too late to break a five-day "dry" stretch, marked by only .03 inch of precipitation. Last heavy rain in this district was marked up for March 25, when the area had .44 inch of moisture.

Normal for March in the Circleville area is 3.91 inches. But the actual accumulation amounted only to 1.41 inch. March of last year ended with a local surplus of rain—1.06 inch over the normal figures.

Local rainfall continued to slip slowly behind the normal since last January 1. Local normal since the beginning of the year is 9.71 inches, but the actual rainfall here since that time has amounted only to 5.25 inches.

To permit the district's rainfall chart to build up a more accurate reading for the opening days of April, The Herald's rainfall "score" will be suspended for several days.

U.N. Said Offering Loan To Egyptians

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—John J. McCloy, representing the United Nations in financial aspects of Suez Canal clearance work, met President Nasser today to explore a possible loan to Egypt for new canal equipment.

Unconfirmed reports said Egypt wants at least $10 million to replace tugs, dredgers and navigational aids lost in last November's fighting.

While here McCloy also has discussed payment of costs for clearing the canal, now estimated at less than $20 million. U. N. sources said this probably will be paid by adding a surcharge to canal tolls for a limited period.

Ex-Banker Dies In Chicago In Gangster Style

Police Say $300,000 Carried By Victim At Time Of Killing

CHICAGO (AP)—Leon Marcus, a prime figure in the Orville E. Hodge scandal, carried more than $300,000 in cash and checks when he was slain, police report.

Marcus, 61, onetime majority stockholder in the Southmoor Bank and Trust Co., was put to death in gangland fashion here Sunday night.

William Touhy, deputy chief of detectives, stated that a $300,000 check made out to Marcus was found in the victim's wallet. The officer said the check was drawn on the Society National Bank of Cleveland, was dated June 28, 1956, and was signed "J. A. Herman."

Touhy said an inventory showed that Marcus also carried $3,600 in other checks and $1,640 in cash. The last friend to see Marcus alive, Alfred Rado, said Marcus had $8,000 in cash. That would indicate that some $6,300 in cash was missing.

"THIS WASN'T robbery," Touhy commented, pointing to the cash and jewelry found on the body.

Touhy theorized that the motive for the killing may be found in the victim's financial affairs. He said he plans to question the principals in the Hodge case in an effort to find out more about Marcus' dealings.

Marcus was seized by several men after he had left the Rado home on 51st street on the South Side. He was dragged into an automobile and whisked away.

His body, with a .45 caliber bullet wound in the back of the head, was found shortly afterward in a vacant lot six blocks away.

Marcus, his brother Hyman, 50, an attorney, and Marcus' son-in-law, Martin J. Rosene, 36, were under federal indictments charging misapplication of bank funds and making false entries in bank records. They were scheduled to face trial Sept. 23.

The Southmoor bank is where former Republican State Auditor Hodge cashed more than $600,000 in fraudulent state checks.

Hodge, former Southmoor President Edward A. Hintz and Edward A. Epping, former office manager for the high state official, are serving prison terms in connection with Hodge's theft of $2 million in state funds.

The indictments against the Marcus brothers and Rosene alleged unlawful diversion of bank money from real estate loans.

RADO, OWNER of the Lavine Lumber Co., told police Marcus was leaving his apartment over the lumber firm's office after Sunday dinner. Five or six men grabbed him as he was about to enter his car. Rado said the victim shouted: "Leave me alone and I'll give you anything I got."

Marcus was thrust into a dark Chevrolet, Rado related, and the auto drove off.

Meanwhile, Rado's wife Joyce, who was upstairs, called police.

Leon Marcus was named Feb. 6 along with Rado, an owner of Home Craft Construction Co., and several other firms in a $200,000 recovery suit charging "fraudulent conspiracy" in construction company loans.

The suit contended Marcus compelled Rado to turn over mortgages and property in a local housing project worth $200,000.

Knowland Opposes Barter With Reds

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California split with the Eisenhower administration today to oppose a proposal for the barter of surplus farm commodities to Iron Curtain countries.

Knowland reported he is opposed to a provision of a pending bill, approved by President Eisenhower and Secretary of Agriculture Benson, which would permit the exchange with Russian satellites of food and fibers for strategic materials.

That provision is included in a bill now before the Senate which would continue and enlarge the present program for overseas disposal of surplus agricultural commodities. Present law bans trade with Iron Curtain countries.

CHS Students Give Program For Rotarians

Program for the latest Rotary Club meeting was presented by students from Circleville High School.

The program was based on a new class at CHS based on "consumer education". The class is conducted by Mrs. Eleanor Adkins. Students participating in the program were as follows:

Peggy Anderson, Nancy Myers, Mike Hosler, Jane Davis and William Cramblitt. Theme for discussion was "Is Our Business Old or Is It New? Should We Be Bold or Should We Be Blue?"

Training classes for new store clerks; adult education courses for employees at foreman and supervisor level; off-street parking facilities; better display of merchandise; greater variety of selection of goods; attractive store fronts; a shopping center away from the center of town; and a teen-age store.

Traffic Safety Official Reminds Public On Mass Highway Death

Last year 40,000 persons were killed on our streets and highways. That figure exceeds the number of Americans killed in action during the entire Korean war. Naturally the question in the minds and on the lips of all thinking citizens is, "Why?" Why does a supposedly civilized country blithely try to commit slow suicide?

Darrell Hatfield, chairman of the Pickaway County Traffic Safety Committee says, "That's the 40,000-life question." Until it is answered this country will continue to liquidate its driving and walking citizens at an alarming rate.

Certainly one of the reasons for the mass murder on our streets and highways is the split morality so prevalent among drivers today.

WHAT IS this split morality? It's a queer sense of values that permits a person to live by one code when he's outside his car — and a completely different one as soon as he slips behind the steering wheel.

This type of split thinking must go. It can go — and quickly — if every driver will do his part.

Hatfield said, "Every driver, of course, includes you and me."

Driving Under Influence Heads Cases In Circleville Muny Court

Motorists accused of driving under the influence of intoxicants headed the weekend list of cases in Circleville Municipal Court, with a total of five defendants receiving fines, jail sentences and suspensions Saturday and today.

Each driver was fined $100 and costs, sentenced to three days in jail and had his operator's license suspended for six months. They were as follows:

Ned Garrett, 26, Avery Heeter, 39, and Ernest Happeney, 22, all of Circleville, Jerry Thacker Jr., 25, Martel, and Harold B. Phillips, 25, Columbus.

Garrett, Thacker, Martel and Phillips were arrested by city police. Heeter was cited by the sheriff's department. In other cases heard, a Fort Knox soldier, Joaquin L. G. Flores, 27, received fines and probation on three accusations, one of them being for impersonating an officer. He was fined $50 and costs for reckless operation, $25 and costs and 10 days in jail for the impersonation count and $25 and costs and 10 days in jail for assault and battery.

The jail sentences were suspended and Flores was placed on two year probation. The affidavit for assault and battery was signed by Lola Johnson.

Ronald Culp, 21, and William

Woman, Child Hurt In Auto Collision

A woman and an infant were injured late Saturday in a two-car crash on the Kingston Pike about six miles southeast of Circleville.

The Pickaway County Sheriff's office reported that a car being driven south by Dorothy G. Walsh, 28, of Kingston, collided with another car also going south, driven by William Bitzer, 50, of Circleville Route 1.

Injured were Ruth Bellmore, 48, of Chillicothe, a passenger in the Walsh car, who suffered shock and a sprained ankle, and Delba Bella Bitzer, 3, a passenger in the other vehicle, who suffered a bump on the forehead.

Other defendants arrested by police were as follows:

March Rainfall Here Ends With Large Deficit

Despite the soggy setting afforded by today's early drizzle, March rainfall in the Circleville area ended two and one-half inches short of what it should have been.

Today's rain came too late to break a five-day "dry" stretch, marked by only .03 inch of precipitation. Last heavy rain in this district was marked up for March 25, when the area had .44 inch of moisture.

Normal for March in the Circleville area is 3.91 inches. But the actual accumulation amounted only to 1.41 inch. March of last year ended with a local surplus of rain—1.06 inch over the normal figures.

Local rainfall continued to slip slowly behind the normal since last January 1. Local normal since the beginning of the year is 9.71 inches, but the actual rainfall here since that time has amounted only to 5.25 inches.

To permit the district's rainfall chart to build up a more accurate reading for the opening days of April, The Herald's rainfall "score" will be suspended for several days.

U.N. Said Offering Loan To Egyptians

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—John J. McCloy, representing the United Nations in financial aspects of Suez Canal clearance work, met President Nasser today to explore a possible loan to Egypt for new canal equipment.

Unconfirmed reports said Egypt wants at least $10 million to replace tugs, dredgers and navigational aids lost in last November's fighting.

While here McCloy also has discussed payment of costs for clearing the canal, now estimated at less than $20 million. U. N. sources said this probably will be paid by adding a surcharge to canal tolls for a limited period.

Ex-Banker Dies In Chicago In Gangster Style

Police Say $300,000 Carried By Victim At Time Of Killing

CHICAGO (AP)—Leon Marcus, a prime figure in the Orville E. Hodge scandal, carried more than $300,000 in cash and checks when he was slain, police report.

Marcus, 51, onetime majority stockholder in the Southmoor Bank and Trust Co., was put to death in gangland fashion here Sunday night.

William Touhy, deputy chief of detectives, stated that a $300,000 check made out to Marcus was found in the victim's wallet. The officer said the check was drawn on the Society National Bank of Cleveland, was dated June 28, 1956, and was signed "J. A. Herman."

Touhy said an inventory showed that Marcus also carried $3,600 in other checks and $1,640 in cash.

The last friend to see Marcus alive, Alfred Rado, said Marcus had $8,000 in cash. That would indicate that some $6,300 in cash was missing.

"THIS WASN'T robbery," Touhy commented, pointing to the cash and jewelry found on the body.

Touhy theorized that the motive for the killing may be found in the victim's financial affairs. He said he plans to question the principals in the Hodge case in an effort to find out more about Marcus' dealings.

Marcus was seized by several men after he had left the Rado home on 51st street on the South Side. He was dragged into an automobile and whisked away.

His body, with a .45 caliber bullet wound in the back of the head, was found shortly afterward in a vacant lot six blocks away.

Marcus, his brother Hyman, 50, an attorney, and Marcus' son-in-law, Martin J. Rosene, 36, were under federal indictments charging misapplication of bank funds and making false entries in bank records. They were scheduled to face trial Sept. 23.

The Southmoor bank is where former Republican State Auditor Hodge cashed more than $600,000 in fraudulent state checks.

Hodge, former Southmoor President Edward A. Hintz and Edward A. Epping, former office manager for the high state official, are serving prison terms in connection with Hodge's theft of $2 million in state funds.

The indictments against the Marcus brothers and Rosene alleged unlawful diversion of bank money from real estate loans.

RADO, OWNER of the Lavine Lumber Co., told police Marcus was leaving his apartment over the lumber firm's office after Sunday dinner. Five or six men grabbed him as he was about to enter his car. Rado said the victim shouted:

"Leave me alone and I'll give you anything I got."

Marcus was thrust into a dark Chevrolet, Rado related, and the auto drove off.

Meanwhile, Rado's wife Joyce, who was upstairs, called police.

Leon Marcus was named Feb. 6 along with Rado, an owner of Home Craft Construction Co., and several other firms in a $200,000 recovery suit charging "fraudulent conspiracy" in construction company loans.

The suit contended Marcus compelled Rado to turn over mortgages and property in a local housing project worth $200,000.

Knowland Opposes Barter With Reds

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California split with the Eisenhower administration today to oppose a proposal for the barter of surplus farm commodities to Iron Curtain countries.

Knowland reported he is opposed to a provision of a pending bill, approved by President Eisenhower and Secretary of Agriculture Benson, which would permit the exchange with Russian satellites of food and fibers for strategic materials.

That provision is included in a bill now before the Senate which would continue and enlarge the present program for overseas disposal of surplus agricultural commodities. Present law bans trade with Iron Curtain countries.

CHS Students Give Program For Rotarians

Program for the latest Rotary Club meeting was presented by students from Circleville High School.

The program was based on a new class at CHS based on "consumer education." The class is conducted by Mrs. Eleanor Adkins. Students participating in the program were as follows:

Peggy Anderson, Nancy Myers, Mike Hosler, Jane Davis and William Cramblitt. Theme for discussion was "Is Our Business Old or Is It New? Should We Be Bold or Should We Be Blue?"

Students offered many ideas and suggestions concerning business conditions in Circleville. Some examples were:

Training classes for new store clerks; adult education courses for employees at foreman and supervisor level; off-street parking facilities; better display of merchandise; greater variety of selection of goods; attractive store fronts; a shopping center away from the center of town; and a teen-age store.

Traffic Safety Official Reminds Public On Mass Highway Death

Last year 40,000 persons were killed on our streets and highways. That figure exceeds the number of Americans killed in action during the entire Korean war.

Naturally the question in the minds and on the lips of all thinking citizens is, "Why?" Why does a supposedly civilized country blithely try to commit slow suicide?

Darrell Hatfield, chairman of the Pickaway County Traffic Safety Committee says, "That's the 40,000-life question." Until it is answered this country will continue to liquidate its driving and walking citizens at an alarming rate. Certainly one of the reasons for the mass murder on our streets and highways is the split morality so prevalent among drivers today.

What is this split morality? It's a queer sense of values that permits a person to live by one code when he's outside his car—and a completely different one as soon as he slips behind the steering wheel.

This type of split thinking must go. It can go—and quickly—if every driver will do his part.

Hatfield said, "Every driver, of course, includes you and me."

Hit and run drivers, drunk drivers, speeders, and ticket fixers are not the only victims of split morality. Anyone who sneaks through on the yellow light, jumps the gun at a traffic signal or commits any other so-called "minor" infraction is infected with it to some extent.

So is the person who is careful to observe all the rules himself, but will not give an inch to rectify another driver's or a pedestrian's unsafe action.

"The person who drives by the moral code follows all the rules AND he also drives defensively," chairman Hatfield explained. He drives in such a manner as to avoid accidents by anticipating and allowing for hazards created by the unsafe acts of others and adverse traffic and weather conditions.

THIS is the only type of driver who can call himself a safe driver. The fellow who is not willing to bend over backwards to protect himself and others is not fit to drive. He should be forbidden to use the roads by an aroused public opinion.

But part of that aroused public opinion is our own private opinion. Before we train our private opinion on all those other drivers, we should focus it mercilessly on our own traffic conduct. If our driving doesn't measure up to the strictest standards, we're part of that "40,000-life question."

O'Neill Aides Put Spotlight On Ohio GOP

Highway Construction, Anti-Gambling Moves Gain State Headlines

COLUMBUS (P)—Two top aides of Gov. C. William O'Neill have put the fledgling Republican administration into headlines in Ohio.

They trained twin spotlights on highway construction and anti-gambling activities in a manner to muffle complaints that the former attorney general couldn't get his new show on the road.

Charles M. Noble, $30,000 a year highway chief imported from the New Jersey Turnpike, lived up to advance billing. He handed O'Neill a blue-print for new highways costing a whopping 2½ billion dollars in the next four years.

About a billion dollars worth of four-lane thoroughfares will be built or put under contract by mid-1959, Noble promised.

Liquor Director Robert B. Krupansky of Cleveland carried out the governor's pledge to keep big-time gambling out of Ohio by helping padlock four "Las Vegas operation" casinos near Toledo after a month of sleuthing. O'Neill said reports of gambling near Portsmouth also are under investigation.

The governor called in county sheriffs the day after his inauguration and told them he would close up gambling joints if they didn't. He asked their cooperation because of reports that gambling syndicates planned to move into Ohio after the departure of Democratic Gov. Frank J. Lausche to the U.S. Senate.

"It is the duty of the local officials to keep out vice," O'Neill told the sheriffs at an unprecedented State House meeting. "If it moves into any area, I will use the authority invested in me by law to take appropriate action to drive it out."

O'Neill described the Toledo gambling layout as "a real Las Vegas operation . . . a difficult one to crack."

An affidavit by State Liquor agent Andrew B. Leist, who passed armed guards to reach the crap and blackjack tables operated by Michigan gamblers, led to the court padlock order. O'Neill said Leist had help from the State Department of Industrial Relations, the state fire marshal and the state patrols of Ohio and Michigan.

Another cabinet appointee receiving $16,000 is Agriculture Director James R. Hay of Worthington. The job formerly paid $10,000. Hay, a veterinarian, moved

Bootlegger Given Plenty Of Help

TULSA, Okla. (P)—Meltin Tavern Harmon, 21-year-old Tulsa bootlegger, had lots of help when his car collided with a truck here.

Officers said they found 25 fifths and 5 pints of liquor in his car when they arrived at the scene but declared Harmon had given away that much to bystanders.

Oklahoma is dry. Harmon pleaded guilty to a whisky possession charge and was fined $75.

up from the department's Division of Animal Husbandry.

Other cabinet officers receiving $18,000, in posts formerly paying $10,000 and $12,000, are: Finance Director John Skipton of Marietta, who drew $11,400 as director of the Legislative Service Commission; Natural Resources Director Herbert B. Eagon, Delaware farmer and conservationist, and Mrs. R. Livingston Ireland of Cleveland, welfare director. She is the wife of the chairman of the executive committee of the M. A. Hanna Co. and the Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Co.

Bitter Hearings Due Soon On Foreign Aid Allocations

Editor's Note: Bitter congressional hearings are brewing over President Eisenhower's request for $4.4 billion for foreign aid. This is the first of five articles which present a searching study of U.S. foreign aid programs as a background for the coming debate.

WASHINGTON (P)—Take a $20 bill, three singles, a nickel and two pennies.

This is what the United States foreign aid programs cost you last year. It is the "per capita" figure. In effect, it means that helping other nations took from every American — man, woman and child — $23.07.

Did the dollars hit the targets overseas? Merely nick the edges? Or miss completely?

Will the same portion of your taxes be taken this year and sent abroad?

How long does this have to go on? Indefinitely? Or can Congress cut back now, and eventually stop the programs entirely?

Big questions.

ELYRIA (P)—Two deputies found Michael Herrera's right ear on the Ohio Turnpike Saturday and it was restored to its normal place by a surgeon at Elyria Memorial Hospital.

The incident began when an auto containing six young people smashed into the center pier of a turnpike bridge over Ohio 57.

The 20-year-old Lorain man, thrown through the car's windshield, was among the injured.

When a doctor at the hospital asked deputies George Rozic and Michael De Nicola to see if they could find the ear, the pair rushed back to the scene, located the ear and sped once again to the hospital. It was stitched into place.

O'Neill Aides Put Spotlight On Ohio GOP

Highway Construction, Anti-Gambling Moves Gain State Headlines

COLUMBUS (AP)—Two top aides of Gov. C. William O'Neill have put the fledgling Republican administration into headlines in Ohio.

They trained twin spotlights on highway construction and anti-gambling activities in a manner to muffle complaints that the former attorney general couldn't get his new show on the road.

Charles M. Noble, $30,000 a year highway chief imported from the New Jersey Turnpike, lived up to advance billing. He handed O'Neill blue-print for new highways costing a whopping 2½ billion dollars in the next four years.

About a billion dollars worth of four-lane thoroughfares will be built or put under contract by mid-1959, Noble promised.

Liquor Director Robert B. Krupansky of Cleveland carried out the governor's pledge to keep big-time gambling out of Ohio by helping padlock four "Las Vegas operation" casinos near Toledo after a month of sleuthing. O'Neill said reports of gambling near Portsmouth also are under investigation.

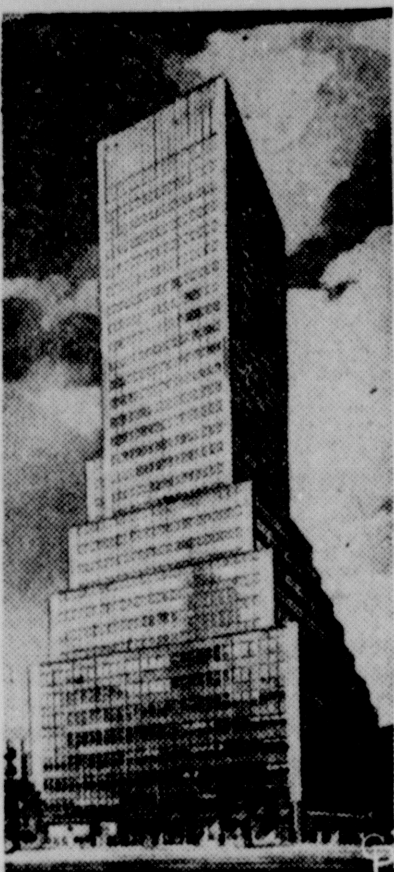

The governor called in county sheriffs the day after his inauguration and told them he would close up gambling joints if they didn't. He asked their cooperation because of reports that gambling syndicates planned to move into Ohio after the departure of Democratic Gov. Frank J. Lausche to the U.S. Senate.

"It is the duty of the local officials to keep out vice," O'Neill told the sheriffs at an unprecedented State House meeting. "If it moves into any area, I will use the authority invested in me by law to take appropriate action to drive it out."

O'Neill described the Toledo gambling layout as "a real Las Vegas operation . . . a difficult one to crack."

An affidavit by State Liquor agent Andrew B. Leist, who passed armed guards to reach the crap and blackjack tables operated by Michigan gamblers, led to the court padlock order. O'Neill said Leist had help from the State Department of Industrial Relations, the state fire marshal and the state patrols of Ohio and Michigan.

for foreign aid programs for the coming fiscal year.

Congress isn't ready to vote on that yet. Right now, it is taking testimony from key witnesses. Soon the sparks will be flying from a red-hot story.

At this moment, the mood off Congress appears to be for a cut in the $4,400,000,000. Perhaps to the bone.

Some legislators talk of a one-billion-dollar cut. Others would go even deeper.

Here are some reflections — "Insofar as winning friends or battling the Russians, our foreign aid program has been an abysmal failure," says Sen. Ellender (D-La.). He traveled in 28 countries last year and submitted a 525-page report to the Senate.

"It's a good program," says Sen. Cooper (R-Ky), former ambassador to India. "Nations in the Middle East and Asia that have recently become independent, and are trying to establish a stable economy have great needs. We can't determine where they're going to land. But if we're trying to establish the right kind of feeling, we must help them."

"A lot of technical assistance has been baloney," says Congressman Taber (R-NY), veteran member of the House Appropriations Committee. He said he believed the administration of the International Cooperation Administration has improved, but added, "There are still many people in it with nothing but political qualifications for their jobs."

Human Whims And Cherry Trees

The name of Washington, the hatchet and the blossoming cherry tree will never be dissociated in American lore. Whether young Master Washington ever told a lie or not (who would put it past him that a cherry tree fell to his hatchet?) the tale as Parson Weems tells it will always be remembered.

And the District of Columbia's flowering ranks of Japanese cherry trees, now again in bloom, have had a lively history. Two thousand of them were presented in 1909 by the people of Japan to the people of the United States. When fungus and insects made it necessary to destroy the first shipment, the situation had all the makings of an international incident.

Japan replaced her original gift of 2,000

with 3,000 more trees, all in the best of health. This confirmed the general American feeling that Japan was a nation of friendly flower-lovers, quaint but lovable. The feeling still prevailed, more or less, in 1938 during the "China incident," when Washington clubwomen shackled themselves to the trees to keep some of them from being uprooted to landscape the site of the Thomas Jefferson Memorial.

Washington's second hatchet incident came later. Three days after Pearl Harbor a few patriots gave vent to their changed feelings toward Japan by felling some of the bare-boughed trees. Now the hatchets have long been buried again, and the "Loveliest of trees, the cherry now, is hung with bloom along the bough" in the nation's capital.

Whatever the future of the weather, the average citizen will find the heat turned on in July and August.

Millionaire Tells Wealth Secret

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Multi-millionaire Axel Wenner-Gren, "the Swedish Sphinx," says it is a mystery to him why he is sometimes called "the mystery man of international finance."

"If I spent all my time talking about what I was doing, I wouldn't have time left to do all the things I still want to," he said.

"I am no mystery man. I have tried to keep out of the spotlight, but sometimes you have to throw a little light on what you are attempting to do."

And in his 76th year Dr. Wenner-Gren feels he is now embarked on the biggest project of his life. It is the opening up of a 40,000-square-mile frontier tract in British Columbia, a wilderness area of Canada almost as large as England and Wales combined.

Wenner-Gren has deposited half a million dollars with British Columbia provincial authorities as a guarantee he will build a 400-mile monorail in the area by 1960. But before then he expects to spend $5 million to inventory its mineral, hydro-electric and timber resources.

"This is the most important thing I have ever tried," said Wenner-Gren, "because it will mean more to more people."

His company has agreed to provide hospitals and schools in the area as it develops, and his own share of any profits have been pledged to philanthropies. His associates estimate that if the territory proves as rich in resources as they expect, more than a billion dollars of capital will eventually be required to develop them.

Wenner-Gren, who is tanned, gray-haired and as vigorous as his Viking forbears, is often referred to as "one of the five richest men in the world."

His blue eyes twinkle in amusement when asked if it is true that he belongs in this charmed circle of wealth.

"I don't know myself," he said. "I wish I were. But as soon as I have more than I want I give it away."

Associates have estimated he has given up to $50 million to various scientific and health foundations he has established here and in Sweden. He doesn't like to discuss his private philanthropies.

Wenner-Gren has moved fabulous amounts of money around the map of the world as an ordinary man might move checkers on a checkerboard.

He is an organization genius, and is now reported to have active business interests in 20 countries. He founded his fortune on vacuum cleaners and home refrigerators, but today his scores of corporations make everything from diet pills to railroad trains.

The real mystery to most people is how this "mystery man" who in 1907 was getting 15 cents an hour in a New Jersey tractor factory, became a 20th century croesus.

But Wenner-Gren doesn't mind disclosing his secret of how to become rich.

"All that is required to make a million dollars is hard work, self-discipline and common sense," he observed dryly.

Proxie And Their Dangers

By George Sokolsky

Whoever owns the shares of a company or enough of them to constitute control, can select the management of the enterprise. There may be a century or more of tradition behind those who imagined themselves in control, but they or their ancestors made the choice of borrowing from the public by selling the shares of the company to the general public, and when they took that step they limited their rights in their own business. Therefore from the standpoint of strict legality, the founder of a business has no ground for complaint if those whose only participation in a business was to buy some shares, unite to deprive him of his pride and joy whenever they can.

The tax laws have played a destructive role in the fast vanishing family-owned enterprises. It is dangerous to the heirs of an owner of a family business for the senior to hold on to his entire ownership, as he might leave his widow and children without sufficient cash to meet the inheritance tax on his death. Often a man sells off the whole or a part of his business for tax purposes. This is a direct application of the Marxian method of destroying capitalism as developed over the years in American tax laws. Some men solve this problem by leaving their businesses to a foundation which is more a legalistic than a moral solution because ultimately most foundations fall into the hands of professionals who expend their fortunes on other purposes than might have been desired or even designated.

So we have the picture of a man laboring through the best years of his life to erect a productive business enterprise with his own money, ingenuity and initiative, facing a proxy fight during which newcomers, ruthlessly seek to take over his enterprise and often succeed by methods rarely employed in this country since the days of the robber barons, Jay Gould and Jim Fisk.

The situation has been dramatized by the activities of Leopold Silberstein to take over Fairbanks-Morse, an operation which involves all the gambits of the take over. However, the Silberstein enterprise is only one and not really the most significant although Silberstein and some of his associates and hired hands are as dramatic as Max Reinhardt and should really be in the theater. Silberstein focussed attention upon himself and his activities by hiring a galaxy of press agents and fixers who attracted as much attention to themselves as to their principal. The number of companies taken over by proxy fights or by attrition leading to virtual abandonment is large and presents a very ugly picture. Thus far, no recent raider has won public approval because none of them have displayed anything more attractive than the ability to borrow money.

Every time management these days notes an excessive activity of its stock in the market, it wonders who is raiding the stock, who is rigging the market, who is downgrading management. It consumes energy, time and manpower and it is distracting and wasteful.

Fear of raiding can be used by competitors as a method for lessening business effectiveness. It is used to be that management rarely worried about the daily movement of its stock in the market, but the presence of raiders creates an atmosphere of fear and uncertainty. Who will be struck down next?

It is pretty well known that certain investment underwriters in Wall Street, favorably known for their stability, have moved into the field of stock market manipulation with a view to raiding and taking over well-established companies that are attending to their own business.

"Strike suit" lawyers, who used to read balance sheets to discover whether there was not a profitable lawsuit in an error of management or a smaller dividend, now look forward to the organization of raiding syndicates. Management suddenly finds itself with new partners, men of uncertain status and probity, men who are even known to have criminal records.

And there is nothing that can be done about it under the present laws, so far as one can judge from what is being done either by SEC or by the attorney general's office.

The question really is: What should be done? And as many of the raided companies are engaged in the national defense, this is a matter of national importance.

New Aids In Medicine

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

A NEW hormone for treating arthritis and a new extra powerful hearing aid are among the advances which I would like to discuss today in our monthly review of medicine.

The new hormone is known as triamcinolone. A synthetic hormone of the cortisone family, it was tested recently on 18 patients in preliminary clinical trials with good results.

The real mystery to most people is how this "mystery man" who in 1907 was getting 15 cents an hour in a New Jersey tractor factory, became a 20th century croesus.

But Wenner-Gren doesn't mind disclosing his secret of how to become rich.

loss. The new five-transistor instrument, according to reports, enables a severely handicapped person to hear the softest music and speech.

The high-powered output of the device, the manufacturers claim, covers a wide range of high and low tones, many of them sounds which users have been unable to hear in the past.

Valuable Drug

Another development in the medical field is the increased use of chloramphenicol. Although not a new drug, it is becoming increasingly valuable in treating bacterial diseases.

Indiscriminate use of some other broad spectrum antibiotics, doctors report, has made many persons resistant to them. Chloramphenicol, on the other hand, still is effective.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — Any chance of civil rights legislation passing Congress this year? Don't bet on it. Some people are optimistic. But Southerners, as usual, are against new civil rights laws.

The House Judiciary Committee has approved a bill — essentially the kind asked by President Eisenhower — but the full House hasn't voted on it yet. The Rules Committee still must clear it.

It's almost certain to pass the House, where debate is limited. The Senate Judiciary Committee hasn't approved any bills yet. If it does, the measure will probably be similar to the House bill.

But then, when it comes before the full Senate, where debate is unlimited, it faces a Southern filibuster which, for generations, has been able to block civil rights legislation.

This describes the House bill: 1. It would authorize Eisenhower to create a six-man commission to study the whole field of civil rights for two years and then make recommendations. The commission could subpoena witnesses and records.

This authority means power: the commission could force witnesses to testify or, if they refuse, face a fine and jail sentence in federal court.

If Eisenhower created such a commission on his own it would lack subpoena power and therefore be handcuffed from the start. It would have to depend on hostile witnesses for voluntary cooperation.

Southerners argue against the proposed subpoena power.

2. At present the Justice Department has a civil rights section tucked away in its Criminal Division. The House bill would create both a new Civil Rights Division and a new assistant attorney general to run it.

Not much argument on that one.

3. At present in the South if someone — say a registrar of voters — interferes with a Negro's voting rights, the latter could ask a federal judge to issue an injunction to stop the interference.

If the registrar ignored the injunction, the Negro could go back and tell the judge the registrar was in contempt of court. If the judge acted then, the registrar would have to be given a trial by jury.

The Eisenhower administration proposed — and the House bill provides for it — that in such a case of voting interference it would be the government which asked the judge for an injunction. In short, the Negro wouldn't have to get a lawyer and go to court. The government would go to court. Then if the registrar ignored the injunction, the government, not the Negro, would notify the judge.

In this kind of case — where the government initiated the action — the registrar could be tried on contempt charges by the judge alone, not by a jury.

Southerners make their biggest protest over this, arguing the right of trial by jury for everyone facing a jail sentence.

Those pushing the bill don't budge under that argument. They contend there are already many laws on the books — for instance, in antitrust suits — where the attorney general initiates action for an injunction and contempt and the trial is by judge alone.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

GEORGE DIXON swears he read this in a book published long ago in the deep South:

"After chasing the Union army all over the map, the Confederates pulled up at Appomattox, planning to wipe out the Yankees... General Lee was resting at the town's courthouse when he walked General Grant to surrender. Lee took the Union general to be an orderly, so he gave him his sword to polish. Astonished, Grant took the sword, thinking Lee had surrendered instead. He even thanked Lee for surrendering and, being a true Southern gentleman, Lee couldn't go back on his word."

The parents of a 150-pound, 10-year-old boy were surprised to learn that he had won the part of Cleopatra in a school play. "But why," asked his mother, "did they give such a part to the huskiest lad in the class?"

"They had to," explained the boy cheerfully. "It was my snake!"

Human Whims And Cherry Trees

The name of Washington, the hatchet and the blossoming cherry tree will never be dissociated in American lore. Whether young Master Washington ever told a lie or not (who would put it past him that a cherry tree fell to his hatchet?) the tale as Parson Weems tells it will always be remembered.

And the District of Columbia's flowering ranks of Japanese cherry trees, now again in bloom, have had a lively history. Two thousand of them were presented in 1909 by the people of Japan to the people of the United States. When fungus and insects made it necessary to destroy the first shipment, the situation had all the makings of an international incident.

But the Japanese dignitary who received the report from a nervous U. S. embassy official took the blow smilingly. "Oh," he said, "I believe your first President set the example of destroying cherry trees!" Japan replaced her original gift of 2,000 with 3,000 more trees, all in the best of health. This confirmed the general American feeling that Japan was a nation of friendly flower-lovers, quaint but lovable. The feeling still prevailed, more or less, in 1938 during the "China incident," when Washington clubwomen shackled themselves to the trees to keep some of them from being uprooted to landscape the site of the Thomas Jefferson Memorial.

Washington's second hatchet incident came later. Three days after Pearl Harbor a few patriots gave vent to their changed feelings toward Japan by felling some of the bare-boughed trees. Now the hatchets have long been buried again, and the "Loveliest of trees, the cherry now, is hung with bloom along the bough" in the nation's capital.

Whatever the future of the weather, the average citizen will find the heat turned on in July and August.

Millionaire Tells Wealth Secret

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Multi-millionaire Axel Wenner-Gren, "the Swedish Sphinx," says it is a mystery to him why he is sometimes called "the mystery man of international finance."

"If I spent all my time talking about what I was doing, I wouldn't have time left to do all the things I still want to," he said.

"I am no mystery man. I have tried to keep out of the spotlight, but sometimes you have to throw a little light on what you are attempting to do."

And in his 76th year Dr. Wenner-Gren feels he is now embarked on the biggest project of his life. It is the opening up of a 40,000-square-mile frontier tract in British Columbia, a wilderness area of Canada almost as large as England and Wales combined.

Wenner-Gren has deposited half a million dollars with British Columbia provincial authorities as a guarantee he will build a 400-mile monorail in the area by 1960. But before then he expects to spend $5 million to inventory its mineral, hydro-electric and timber resources.

"This is the most important thing I have ever tried," said Wenner-Gren, "because it will mean more to more people."

His company has agreed to provide hospitals and schools in the area as it develops, and his own share of any profits have been pledged to philanthropies. His associates estimate that if the territory proves as rich in resources as they expect, more than a billion dollars of capital will eventually be required to develop them.

Wenner-Gren, who is tanned, gray-haired and as vigorous as his Viking forbears, is often referred to as "one of the five richest men in the world."

His blue eyes twinkle in amusement when asked if it is true that he belongs in this charmed circle of wealth.

"I don't know myself," he said. "I wish I were. But as soon as I have more than I want I give it away."

Associates have estimated he has given up to $50 million to various scientific and health foundations he has established here and in Sweden. He doesn't like to discuss his private philanthropies.

Wenner-Gren has moved fabulous amounts of money around the map of the world as an ordinary man might move checkers on a checkerboard.

He is an organization genius, and is now reported to have active business interests in 20 countries. He founded his fortune on vacuum cleaners and home refrigerators, but today his scores of corporations make everything from diet pills to railroad trains.

The real mystery to most people is how this "mystery man" who in 1907 was getting 15 cents an hour in a New Jersey tractor factory, became a 20th century croesus.

But Wenner-Gren doesn't mind disclosing his secret of how to become rich.

"All that is required to make a million dollars is hard work, self-discipline and common sense," he observed dryly. There. The secret is yours.

Proxie And Their Dangers

By George Sokolsky

Whoever owns the shares of a company or enough of them to constitute control, can select the management of the enterprise. There may be a century or more of tradition behind those who imagined themselves in control, but they or their ancestors made the choice of borrowing from the public by selling the shares of the company to the general public, and when they took that step they limited their rights in their own business. Therefore from the standpoint of strict legality, the founder of a business has no ground for complaint if those whose only participation in a business was to buy some shares, unite to deprive him of his pride and joy whenever they can.

The tax laws have played a destructive role in the fast vanishing family-owned enterprises. It is dangerous to the heirs of an owner of a family business for the senior to hold on to his entire ownership, as he might leave his widow and children without sufficient cash to meet the inheritance tax on his death. Often a man sells off the whole or a part of his business for tax purposes. This is a direct application of the Marxian method of destroying capitalism as developed over the years in American tax laws. Some men solve this problem by leaving their businesses to a foundation which is more a legalistic than a moral solution because ultimately most foundations fall into the hands of professionals who expend their fortunes on other purposes than might have been desired or even designated.

So we have the picture of a man laboring through the best years of his life to erect a productive business enterprise with his own money, ingenuity and initiative, facing a proxy fight during which newcomers, aliens or very recent Americans, ruthlessly seek to take over his enterprise and often succeed by methods rarely employed in this country since the days of the robber barons, Jay Gould and Jim Fisk.

The situation has been dramatized by the activities of Leopold Silberstein to take over Fairbanks-Morse, an operation which involves all the gambits of the take over. However, the Silberstein enterprise is only one and not really the most significant although Silberstein and some of his associates and hired hands are as dramatic as Max Reinhardt and should really be in the theater. Silberstein focussed attention upon himself and his activities by hiring a galaxy of press agents and fixers who attracted as much attention to themselves as to their principal. The number of companies taken over by proxy fights or by attrition leading to virtual abandonment is large and presents a very ugly picture. Thus far, no recent raider has won public approval because none of them have displayed anything more attractive than the ability to borrow money.

Every time management these days notes an excessive activity of its stock in the market, it wonders who is raiding the stock, who is rigging the market, who is downgrading management. It consumes energy, time and man-

Hospital Chiefs Holding Parley

CLEVELAND (AP) — More than 3,000 hospital executives from throughout the state are expected to attend the five-day 42nd annual convention of the Ohio Hospital Assn. which opened here Sunday.

Louis C. Rittmeyer of Cincinnati, association president, and Harry C. Eader of Columbus, executive secretary, agreed that rising hospital costs rest on a rising wage scale.

power and it is distracting and wasteful.

Fear of raiding can be used by competitors as a method for lessening business effectiveness. It used to be that management rarely worried about the daily movement of its stock in the market, but the presence of raiders creates an atmosphere of fear and uncertainty. Who will be struck down next?

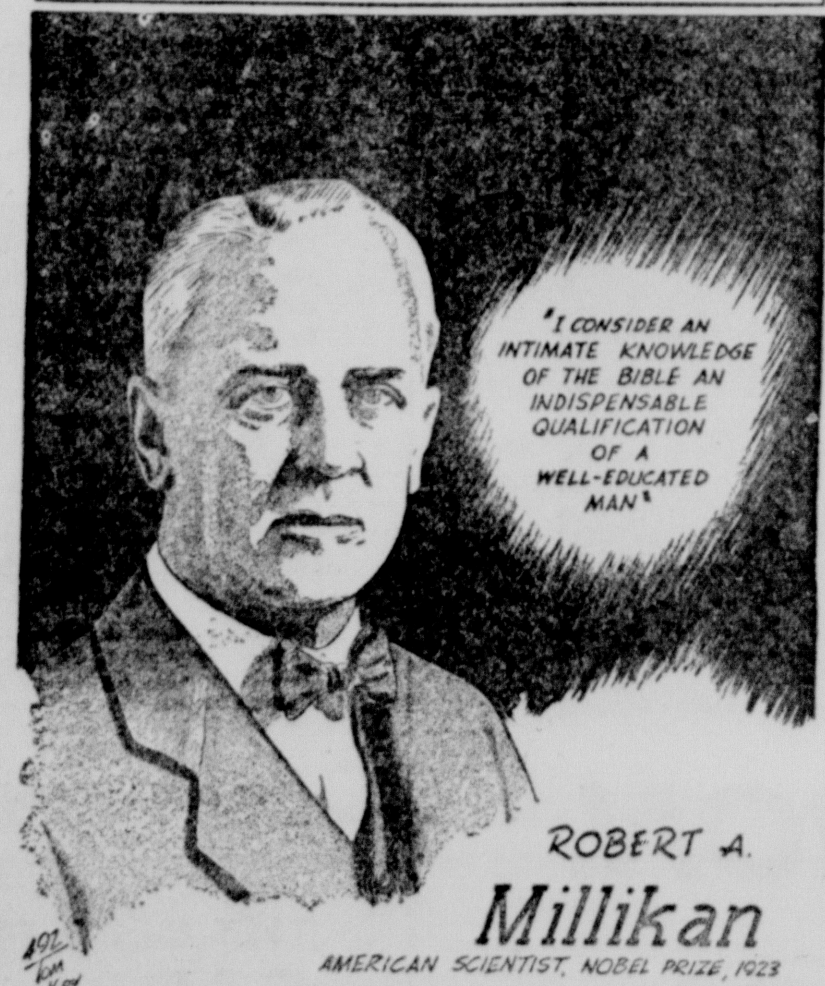

It is pretty well known that certain investment underwriters in Wall Street, favorably known for their stability, have moved into the field of stock market manipulation with a view to raiding and taking over well-established companies that are attending to their own business.

"Strike suit" lawyers, who used to read balance sheets to discover whether there was not a profitable lawsuit in an error of management or a smaller dividend, now look forward to the organization of raiding syndicates. Management suddenly finds itself with new partners, men of uncertain status and probity, men who are even known to have criminal records.

And there is nothing that can be done about it under the present laws, so far as one can judge from what is being done either by SEC or by the attorney general's office.

The question really is: What should be done? And as many of the raided companies are engaged in the national defense, this is a matter of national importance.

New Aids In Medicine

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

A NEW hormone for treating arthritis and a new extra powerful hearing aid are among the advances which I would like to discuss today in our monthly review of medicine.

The new hormone is known as triamcinolone. A synthetic hormone of the cortisone family, it was tested recently on 18 patients in preliminary clinical trials with good results.

The real mystery to most people is how this "mystery man" who in 1907 was getting 15 cents an hour in a New Jersey tractor factory, became a 20th century croesus.

But Wenner-Gren doesn't mind disclosing his secret of how to become rich.

"All that is required to make a million dollars is hard work, self-discipline and common sense," he observed dryly. There. The secret is yours.

The extra-power hearing aid is said to bring the softest sounds to persons with extreme hearing loss. The new five-transistor instrument, according to reports, enables a severely handicapped person to hear the softest music and speech.

The high-powered output of the device, the manufacturers claim, covers a wide range of high and low tones, many of them sounds which users have been unable to hear in the past.

Another development in the medical field is the increased use of chloramphenicol. Although not a new drug, it is becoming increasingly valuable in treating bacterial diseases.

Indiscriminate use of some other broad spectrum antibiotics, doctors report, has made many persons resistant to them. Chloramphenicol, on the other hand, still is effective.

QUESTION AND ANSWER
N. R.: Can putting vitamins in the icebox destroy their potency?
Answer: No, freezing usually preserves rather than harms them. Excessive heat can be detrimental to vitamins.

Roundtown Retrospect

By Mac Noggle

Remember where you first read this? "Said the hare to a tortoise, 'Good sir, what a while you have been only crossing the way; I really believe, that to go a half a mile, you must travel two nights and a day.'"

And then there were six more verses telling how the rabbit was challenged by the turtle to a half mile race and when the rabbit got so far ahead she thought she might as well stop and eat something and afterwards take a snooze, only to find out, on waking up, that she had overslept and that the tortoise had cautiously slipped past and won the race?

Then - remember - there came the moral to the story? "Thus, plain, plodding people, we often shall find, will leave hasty, confident people behind; like the tortoise and the hare, though together they start, we soon clearly see they are widely apart."

"While one trusts the gifts Dame Nature bestows, and relying on these calmly stops to repose, the other holds slowly and surely his way, and thus wins the race, ere the close of the day."

THERE IS NO question but what any old-timer will recall that this was in his McGuffey's Fourth Reader. And we're pretty sure, too, he'll remember there were these admonitions, heading the page. "Sound the 'h' distinctly. Do not say 'are' for here, 'wat' for what; 'wile' for while, 'alf' for half; 'ope' for hope; 'ere' for here, 'be'ind' for behind; 'ear' for hear; 'ave' for have or 'er' for her."

Like Circleville's own Caleb Atwater, William Holmes McGuffey was way ahead of his time in ideas about the education of young folks. One of the things in which he placed great emphasis, was that there were not enough pictures in our textbooks to interest the youngsters, and he spent a lot of money and called upon many of the great wood engravers of his day to contribute their artistry to his Readers.

Another thing which he incorporated in all of his textbooks, was to teach the children of the Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man, and that there were moral and spiritual values, such as virtue, integrity, honesty, courtesy and consideration of others.

Anyone who studied McGuffey's Readers, remember too, the many lessons which dealt on the ideals of McGuffey's favorite maxim— "Bring up the child in a way he should go and when he is old, he will not depart therefrom."

Another thing which greatly disturbed Professor McGuffey, was how the pioneers had been corrupting the English language, by improper pronunciation and indistinct enunciation, like "git" for get, "yit" for yet, "ter" for to and "proably" for probably. He made up his mind that the young folk, coming on, should be taught correct pronunciation and clear enunciation—so you probably remember the exercises he had for practice—some straight reading, some sing-song and others set to a ditty.

A hundred years ago, or even in our own time, progress in getting an education was not measured by what grade you were in but what McGuffey Reader you were studying. Anyone who had graduated from the Second Reader was generally regarded as a pretty good reader, with a choice of words at his command, close to three thousand, and was able to read the almanacs, Sunday School lessons, the Bible and any newspaper he was fortunate enough to get hold of.

AND, TOO, all of these Second Reader graduates were able to write and to spell fairly well, which made them quite popular and much in demand by family and friends, who had no schooling. And, at the risk of being called a sissy, he was able to tell those who had grown up without books or schools, how to behave at the table and when company came, for don't you remember the Second Reader had a lot in it about social standards and the rules of etiquette?

Though William Holmes McGuffey was born in 1800, in Washington County, Pennsylvania, his parents moved to Ohio, when he was two years old and settled near where Youngstown is now located.

He attended country school in the neighborhood, then Old Stone Academy and in time, while teaching to help pay his way, completed a college course at Washington College, Pennsylvania. Dr. McGuffey was made a professor of Miami University at Oxford, Ohio, when he was only twenty five years old, and taught there through 1836.

During this time he wrote his first four Readers and was ordained a minister in Bethel Chapel of the Presbyterian Church in Millville, Butler County, Ohio. From 1836 to 1839 he served as president of Cincinnati College.

From 1839 through 1843 he was president of our Ohio University at Athens. He then went to Woodward College in Cincinnati and from there was called to the University of Virginia, as a professor of natural and moral philosophy. Before accepting this chair, he gave it a lot of thought, for then were troublous times, and it worried him, fearing that his religious feelings and his northern bringing-up might get him in bad in a college with southern leanings.

However, his views got him in no trouble and the Virginians came to love him. Dr. McGuffey remained at the University of Virginia until his death in 1873. He is buried in the University's cemetery, at Charlottesville, Virginia.

William Holmes McGuffey may have been born in the State of Pennsylvania and is buried in the State of Virginia, but don't try to tell any McGuffey Reader devotee that he is not one of the State of Ohio's Greats—we warn you, he won't like it and you may get yourself into a never-ending argument.

U.S. Business Holding Close To Prediction

Second Quarter Data Show Dollar Volume Continuing Gains

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Business enters the second quarter of the year today holding pretty close to its predicted course.

The first three months followed expectations—dollar volume gaining, unit volume mostly just breaking even. The three months ahead, according to the timetable, should be fairly comfortable — if unexciting.

In many ways, leveling off is one of the hardest things for most businessmen to take. The American tradition is for each month to top the like month a year ago. But a sideways drift — at a high level — is what most seem to see for the April, May and June quarter.

This won't be uniform across the nation or for the many different lines of business, though. Adding it all up, the second quarter is expected to come out as a whole about equal with the first, and with the same three months last year.

The outlook for the upcoming three months is based on the fairly even balance of the strong and weak parts of the economy making for the current stability, plus the absence so far of any factor likely to give business much of a prod upward.

Industrial production has been holding about level, and just under the record high. Where there have been declines, offsetting gains elsewhere, it notably has been in industries whose customers are trimming inventories. In the case of steel and some other metals this paring of stocks by manufacturers is expected to be about over in the next month or so.

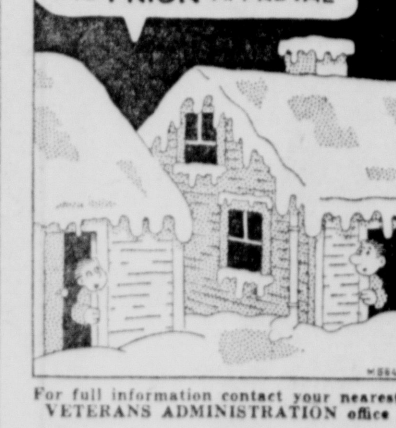

Retail trade is holding just about level with last year — department store sales, for example, are a slim one per cent above a year ago. Personal incomes stay high, on balance — higher pay for some about cancelling out shorter work weeks for others. And employment gains in some segments of the economy have topped layoffs in an increasing number of factories. Consumer spending thus stays high over-all, even if it has disappointed some merchants by not continuing to rise.

Spring apparently is late this year for the auto and home building industries.

But slowness in the auto and home building industries have been balanced fairly well by modest gains in capital goods spending by many industries for plant and equipment and by a steadily increasing expenditure at the various levels of government. The economy drive in Congress might affect this in the future but hardly in the next three months.

Many state park managers are closing roads to automobiles and other vehicles because of traffic damage to thaw-softened roads. V. W. Flickinger, chief of the Ohio division of parks, said today the situation is temporary and necessary to prevent severe damage to blacktop and gravel roads in the parks during late March and early April.

Flickinger assures early Spring visitors that State Parks are not closed to Ohioans, however. He said hikers, picnickers and other park visitors are welcome to the parks even if some areas have to be entered on foot.

Sportsmen living near lakes, streams and gravel pits are being urged by the Ohio division of parks to destroy "junk boats" that have been abandoned on lake shores or river banks. Flickinger said the removal of "junk boats" may avert tragedy to inquisitive youngsters who play around water. Flickinger said a number of drownings in the past have been attributed to children riding in unsafe boats.

Persons destroying old boats and rafts are cautioned to make certain the boats have been abandoned. Seaworthy boats left near the water should be chained and locked in order to prevent damage and misuse by playful youngsters.

FISH and wildlife conservation is the April Program theme for the Boy Scouts of America. During this month Boy Scouts Throughout America are urged to take part in improving our land for wildlife and for man.

This observance is special recognition by this fine youth organization of the importance of fish and wildlife in our lives today. These renewable resources are valuable for many reasons.

Live animals are popular subjects that attract immediate public attention. Fish and wildlife are important in focusing public attention on the need for conservation of all natural resources. Wildlife is the attention catcher which helps to promote sound management of all basic resources, and is especially important for this reason.

Fish and wildlife are important in providing the opportunity for relaxation in a tense modern society. The value of this type of therapy in keeping man fit and motivated in this troubled world is seldom fully realized, and its value will increase as our lives become more complex. More wildlife means a better, more pleasant land.

Working in conservation is valuable training for Boy Scouts. It teaches them the importance of resource management in modern times, and it teaches an appreciation of the outdoors.

Hayden W. Olds, chief of the division of wildlife, expressed hope that Boy Scouts in every Ohio community will contribute to sound fish and wildlife conservation by taking part in this essential program during April.

Roundtown Retrospect

By Mac Noggle

Remember where you first read this? "Said the hare to a tortoise, 'Good sir, what a while you have been only crossing the way; I really believe, that to go a half a mile, you must travel two nights and a day.'"

And then there were six more verses telling how the rabbit was challenged by the turtle to a half mile race and when the rabbit got so far ahead she thought she might as well stop and eat something and afterwards take a snooze, only to find out, on waking up, that she had overslept and that the tortoise had cautiously slipped past and won the race?

Then - remember - there came the moral to the story? "Thus, plain, plodding people, we often shall find, will leave hasty, confident people behind; like the tortoise and the hare, though together they start, we soon clearly see they are widely apart."

"While one trusts the gifts Dame Nature bestows, and relying on these calmly stops for repose, the other holds slowly and surely his way, and thus wins the race, ere the close of the day."

THERE IS NO question but what any old-timer will recall that this was in his McGuffey's Fourth Reader. And we're pretty sure, too, he'll remember there were these admonitions, heading the page. "Sound the 'b' distinctly. Do not say 'are' for hare, 'wat' for what; 'wile' for while, 'alf' for half; 'ope' for hope; 'ere' for here, 'be'ind' for behind; 'ear' for hear; 'ave' for have or 'er' for her."

Like Circleville's own Caleb Atwater, William Holmes McGuffey was way ahead of his time in ideas about the education of young folks. One of the things in which he placed great emphasis, was that there were not enough pictures in our textbooks to interest the youngsters, and he spent a lot of money and called upon many of the great wood engravers of his day to contribute their artistry to his Readers.

Another thing which he incorporated in all of his textbooks, was to teach the children of the Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man, and that there were moral and spiritual values, such as virtue, integrity, honesty, courtesy and consideration of others.

Anyone who studied McGuffey's Readers, remember too, the many lessons which dealt on the ideals of McGuffey's favorite maxim— "Bring up the child in a way he should go and when he is old, he will not depart therefrom."

Another thing which greatly dis-

U.S. Business Holding Close To Prediction

Second Quarter Data Show Dollar Volume Continuing Gains

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Business enters the second quarter of the year today holding pretty close to its predicted course.

The first three months followed expectations—dollar volume gaining, unit volume mostly just breaking even. The three months ahead, according to the timetable, should be fairly comfortable — if unexciting.

In many ways, leveling off is one of the hardest things for most businessmen to take. The American tradition is for each month to top the like month a year ago. But a sideways drift — at a high level — is what most seem to see for the April, May and June quarter.

This won't be uniform across the nation or for the many different lines of business, though. Adding it all up, the second quarter is expected to come out as a whole about equal with the first, and with the same three months last year.

The outlook for the upcoming three months is based on the fairly even balance of the strong and weak parts of the economy making for the current stability, plus the absence so far of any factor likely to give business much of a prod upward.

Industrial production has been holding about level, and just under the record high. Where there have been declines, offsetting gains elsewhere, it notably has been in industries whose customers are trimming inventories. In the case of steel and some other metals this paring of stocks by manufacturers is expected to be about over in the next month or so.

Retail trade is holding just about level with last year — department store sales, for example, are a slim one per cent above a year ago. Personal incomes stay high, on balance — higher pay for some about cancelling out shorter work weeks for others.

And employment gains in some segments of the economy have topped layoffs in an increasing number of factories. Consumer spending thus stays high over-all, even if it has disappointed some merchants by not continuing to rise.

Spring apparently is late this year for the auto and home building industries.

But slowness in the auto and home building industries have been balanced fairly well by modest gains in capital goods spending by many industries for plant and equipment and by a steadily increasing expenditure at the various levels of government. The economy drive in Congress might affect this in the future but hardly in the next three months.

Circleville Garden Club Conducts March Meeting

Mrs. Orion King Presents Program

"Hemerocallis and Iris" was the program subject at the March meeting of the Circleville Garden Club, held in the home of Mrs. Orion King with assisting hostesses Mrs. Anna Ritt and Mrs. Blanche Woltz.

Mr. Floyd Bartley, vice-president, conducted the business of the evening. The following new members and guests were welcomed: Mrs. Hal Dickinson, Mrs. Willis Dodson, Mrs. Kirk Cupp, Mrs. Glenn Hines, Mrs. John Minke and Mrs. Dallas Stephens.

Members voted to sponsor an Iris show this Spring. Plans will be presented at the next meeting by the flower show committee. Mr. Bill Cook is chairman of this committee. As a part of their civic beautification project, the club will add six Arboretums to the plantings at the Fairgrounds coliseum.

Arrangements for the evening were Class I — "Spring is Here" in which Mrs. George Lawson was awarded first, Mrs. C. C. McClure received second. Class II — A line arrangement expressing motion — Mrs. George Lawson, first.

A paper on Hemerocallis (Day-lilies) and Iris was presented by Mrs. Orion King, who is an experienced gardener with both flowers.

According to Mrs. King, Iris first appeared on the historical scene as early as 1500 B.C. The Biblical reeds and flags of the River Nile, where the infant Moses was said to have been hidden, were the yellow water iris, now called Iris pseudacorus, which can be found in several local gardens today.

In the Middle Ages, the iris appeared again as the fleur-de-lis of France. In the Mediterranean region iris were grown not only for their garden value, but for medicinal purposes also. Subsequently the Spanish carried iris into Mexico and the New World. One of the earlier iris, I. pallida dalmatica, is known to have been in cultivation prior to 1600 and was later cataloged as Princess Beatrice, prized not only for its clear lavender color, but also for its delightful fragrance. It is interesting to know that the large clumps of iris in the local cemetery are this same Lady Beatrice, grown from roots given by Mrs. King and her nieces.

Since the middle 19th century the iris has been improved and hybridized until today there are hundreds of varieties and exciting new colors to choose from. Blooms of this hardy plant appear from May to June with some varieties blooming again in the fall. Colors range from orange, lemon and chartreuse tones, to apricot and pink. Rich brown adds an unusual note blending to redder tones and many metallic bronze and copper combinations. Some of the most startling color combinations are found in the plicata iris where one color is stippled with a contrasting color.

Mrs. King started her iris garden in 1920 when advised by her doctor to find an outdoor hobby. At that time she purchased 87 different kinds for $28. Each year she has added newer varieties, until today she has one of the finest local iris gardens.

The Hemerocallis, or more familiarly called daylily, is Mrs. King's other main flower interest. A native of the Orient, there are over 3500 varieties of Hemerocallis. There are many reasons for the popularity of this colorful plant. With different varieties, you can have bloom from spring to fall, large flowers or small, day or night blooming, in flashy or pastel colors. Although a relative newcomer to the gardens of America, it has a popularity surpassed by few other flowers. Quite free from insects and disease, Hemerocallis take little care. The ideal soil is a moderately heavy clay loam. The ideal planting time is late Summer or early Autumn, not later than the last week of September.

Mrs. King adds new varieties to her garden each year. At present she has 170 named varieties and 20 seedlings. She suggests having at least one third of your Hemerocallis of the yellow varieties for lightness and to furnish contrast for the darker and more subtle colors.

At the close of the meeting delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses.

The next meeting will be April 25 in the home of Mrs. George Meyers. Guest speaker will be Mrs. H. O. Caldwell of Lockbourne who will speak on roses and show slides.

Miscellaneous Shower Honors Sue Reiterman

Mrs. Eugene Hayman and Mrs. John Bealle of Mt. Sterling honored Miss Sue Reiterman, bride-elect of Mr. Howard Miller, with a miscellaneous shower.

The event was held in the Hayman home recently.

Following dessert, bridge and canasta were enjoyed by the guests.

Miss Reiterman received many lovely gifts.

For weight-watchers: add a can of minced sea clams, including the liquid, to tomato juice and heat gently. Lots of freshly-ground pepper tastes good in this.

Spring is also in view when new beauty styles make their bow—as they are doing right now!

Long before the official date of Spring's arrival — milady's fancy is turning to thoughts of beauty changes.

Quite naturally a gal longs for a new look. It has been a long Winter, and basic blacks and dark clothes, the height of fashion way back last Fall, have become a bore. That is why now is the time to think of things that can best be described by adjectives like light, bright and novel!

If such is your frame of mind, here is a suggestion:

Begin your Spring-changing with a new hairdo. It is one thing calculated to give you a new look—and in short order.

According to a famous New York hair stylist who has something of a trend-setter, the important coiffure words for Spring are soft, feminine and romantic. All three can be applied to the hairdo he designed for this story.

The way the coiffure looks from all angles is an important consideration. Too many gals take a hair-

Know How To Buy Proper Jewelry

Costume jewelry is something a gal finds hard to resist. It is bright and glittering, attracts women the way candy does kids.

That is the trouble! Often a gal buys everything in sight instead of being selective, choosing just the pieces that will be most becoming.

The important thing, says a company, noted because it sets styles in costume jewelry, is to know yourself. Then you will know which jeweled accessories are for you.

Consider color. If your hair is silver, mauve and sapphire gems will make a pretty contrast, have a softening effect on your complexion.

Eyes blue? Turquoise stones will make them bluer. With green eyes, emerald-colored gems are a sure glamour bet, while a mber brings a pretty gleam to brown eyes.

Facial features, say the experts, do at full face value, forget to note how it looks from other views.

Basically the hairdo has slight height on top, features deep waves at the sides, has a charming little dip over each ear. A few seemingly irrepressible curls add to the natural look of the style which can, of course, be combed in several variations.

For a seasonal touch, our stylist created hairdo accessories with baby orchids, which should give you ideas of ways to wear those Spring flowers that will be in bloom soon.

are a most important consideration when purchasing jewelry. The right gem designs can play up good features, tone down bad ones.

If your face is round, for example, you do not want it to appear rounder, so avoid those big button earrings. Instead, wear drop earrings. They draw the eye down, give illusion of length to your face.

Round button earrings are for the girl with the long, thin face. They help make the facial contour seem broader. Another good choice for this type of face is the earring that goes up on the ear, both broadening and lifting, the facial line.

When it comes to necklaces, the girl with the short heavy neck should wear long ones. Short chokers will cut into her neckline, make it seem even shorter and fatter than it is. Chokers are for long necks, camouflage them neatly.

If your hands are especially graceful and well-shaped, be sure you always wear a bright bracelet that will call attention to them. But if hands are stubby and awkward, skip the jewels. Why spotlight a bad point?

Follow these tips and your jewels will not just glitter. They will glamorize, too.

Ever heat canned pears and serve with a chocolate sauce and whipped cream? Drain the pears, of course.

Those fried apple rings will look especially pretty if you fill the holes in their centers with a bit of red jelly. Nice with bacon, ham or sausage.

Circleville Garden Club Conducts March Meeting

Mrs. Orion King Presents Program

"Hemerocallis and Iris" was the program subject at the March meeting of the Circleville Garden Club, held in the home of Mrs. Orion King with assisting hostesses Mrs. Anna Ritt and Mrs. Blanche Woltz.

Mr. Floyd Bartley, vice-president, conducted the business of the evening. The following new members and guests were welcomed: Mrs. Hal Dickenson, Mrs. Willis Dodson, Mrs. Kirk Cupp, Mrs. Glenn Hines, Mrs. John Minke and Mrs. Dallas Stephens.

Members voted to sponsor an Iris show this Spring. Plans will be presented at the next meeting by the flower show committee. Mr. Bill Cook is chairman of this committee. As a part of their civic beautification project, the club will add six Arboretums to the plantings at the Fairgrounds coliseum.

Arrangements for the evening were Class I — "Spring is Here" in which Mrs. George Lawson was awarded first, Mrs. C. C. McClure received second. Class II — A line arrangement expressing motion — Mrs. George Lawson, first.

A paper on Hemerocallis (Day-lilies) and Iris was presented by Mrs. Orion King, who is an experienced gardener with both flowers. According to Mrs. King, Iris first appeared on the historical scene as early as 1500 B.C. The Biblical reeds and flags of the River Nile, where the infant Moses was said to have been hidden, were the yellow water iris, now called Iris pseudacorus, which can be found in several local gardens today. In the Middle Ages, the iris appeared again as the fleur-de-lis of France. In the Mediterranean region iris were grown not only for their garden value, but for medicinal purposes also. Subsequently the Spanish carried iris into Mexico and the New World. One of the earlier iris, I. pallida dalmatica, is known to have been in cultivation prior to 1600 and was later cataloged as Princess Beatrice, prized not only for its clear lavender color, but also for its delightful fragrance. It is interesting to know that the large clumps of iris in the local cemetery are this same Lady Beatrice, grown from roots given by Mrs. King and her nieces.

Since the middle 19th century the iris has been improved and hybridized until today there are hundreds of varieties and exciting new colors to choose from. Blooms of this hardy plant appear from May to June with some varieties blooming again in the fall. Colors range from orange, lemon and chartreuse tones, to apricot and pink. Rich brown adds an unusual note blending to redder tones and many metallic bronze and copper combinations. Some of the most startling color combinations are found in the plicata iris where one color is stippled with a contrasting color.

Mrs. King started her iris garden in 1920 when advised by her doctor to find an outdoor hobby. At that time she purchased 87 different kinds for $28. Each year she has added newer varieties, until today she has one of the finest local iris gardens.

The Hemerocallis, or more familiarly called daylily, is Mrs. King's other main flower interest. A native of the Orient, there are over 3500 varieties of Hemerocallis. There are many reasons for the popularity of this colorful plant. With different varieties, you can have bloom from spring to fall, large flowers or small, day or night blooming, in flashy or pastel colors. Although a relative newcomer to the gardens of America, it has a popularity surpassed by few other flowers. Quite free from insects and disease, Hemerocallis take little care. The ideal soil is a moderately heavy clay loam. The ideal planting time is late Summer or early Autumn, not later than the last week of September. Mrs. King adds new varieties to her garden each year. At present she has 170 named varieties and 20 seedlings. She suggests having at least one third of your Hemerocallis of the yellow varieties for lightness and to furnish contrast for the darker and more subtle colors.

At the close of the meeting delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses.

The next meeting will be April 25 in the home of Mrs. George Meyers. Guest speaker will be Mrs. H. O. Caldwell of Lockbourne who will speak on roses and show slides.

Miscellaneous

Shower Honors Sue Reiterman

Mrs. Eugene Hayman and Mrs. John Bealle of Mt. Sterling honored Miss Sue Reiterman, bride-elect of Mr. Howard Miller, with a miscellaneous shower.

The event was held in the Hayman home recently.

Following dessert, bridge and canasta were enjoyed by the guests.

Miss Reiterman received many lovely gifts.

FARM ROUNDUP

Pickaway County farmers can obtain experienced advice and up-to-date literature on their farming problems at the County Extension Office located in the Post Office Building, S. Court St., Circleville. The office here is the link between district farmers and the College of Agriculture, Ohio State University.

Senior citizens note: If you've just celebrated your 40th birthday anniversary, it's still much too early to worry about getting old. You can expect to live another third of a century and some of your best years may still be ahead of you.

These were some of the things an Ohio State University professor of rural sociology told a Farm and Home Week audience.

"The average length of life has been extended until now the typical American can expect to live out his allotted three-score-and-ten," said A. R. Mangus. "This extension of average life to 70 years generally is hailed as a measure of progress. One of the greatest challenges of our times is how to make these later years productive, healthy and rewarding."

In the past, Mangus said, much emphasis has been placed on how to get more years in life. Now the emphasis must be given to how to get more life in the later years.

Mangus pointed out that when it comes to life expectancy, the men have less to cheer about than the women. On the female side, life expectancy now is 73 years. On the male side it is 67 years.

"If this means that women represent the stronger sex," the speaker said, "perhaps they need to use that superior strength to keep their husbands alive and to avoid the chances of widowhood."

The average age of farmers is among the highest of that of any major occupational group in the United States, according to Mangus. In Ohio, the average operating farmer is approaching his 51st birthday. More than 6 in 10 farmers already have celebrated their 45th birthdays, 4 in 10 are past 55 and 2 in 10 are past 65.

Successful modern farming requires constantly increasing efficiency, according to E. O. McLean, agronomist in the College of Agriculture at the Ohio State University, Columbus. Speaking before a Farm and Home Week audience, McLean described use of agricultural limestone as "one of those practices which serves as a pillar in a strong fertility program underlying a good farm management operation."

Pointing out that the need for lime in Ohio is eight times greater than the present rate of application, McLean summarized his presentation by explaining that lime actually functions as both a fertilizer and a neutralizer.

As a fertilizer, he said, lime adds calcium and possibly some dolomitic magnesium to the soil. It increases the base saturation of the soil making it easier for plants to obtain nutrients. It may be added to build up the limited supply of bases in the soil or to bring the nutrient situation into better balance. However, McLean cautioned, lime acts more slowly than most commercial fertilizers and thus requires planning ahead.

Lime affects crops in at least four ways, according to McLean. It increases yields, permits successful growth of crops not otherwise grown, affects chemical composition of crops grown, and affects the quality of crops grown.

As a neutralizer, lime cuts acidity; blocks iron and aluminum which otherwise would react with and tie up in unavailable forms the soluble phosphates applied; lowers the solubility of manganese which might otherwise be toxic to plants; stimulates microbes in the soil to decompose organic matter and stimulate nitrogen fixing bacteria.

The tonnage of feedstuffs, water, manure and fertilizer to be moved on the average farm requires more than a "strong back and weak mind," agricultural engineers demonstrated in two sessions during Farm and Home Week at Ohio State University.

The engineers, W. L. Roller, D. M. Byg and K. V. Battles, photographed many applications of power to the materials handling job on farms. Speaking from these action pictures as text, the extension men, described how silage may be fed automatically with an unloader at the top of the silo and conveyers extending through feed bunks.

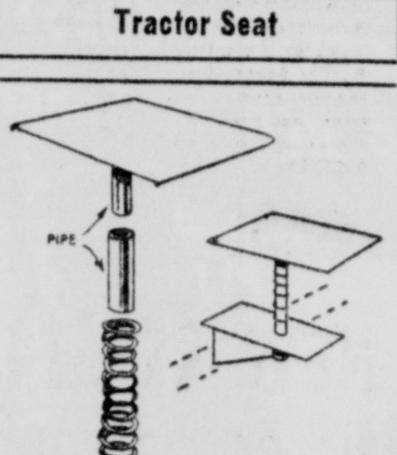

Some of the principles, the engineers applied for Farm and Home Week visitors included: "Move it as little as possible. Let the animals self-feed. Handle larger amounts and make every trip count. Use machines to move materials automatically. Condense it."

Bulk-handling of feeds is growing in Ohio, they said. With overhead storage of feeds, gravity does the work of placing the feed before livestock.

"Let cattle eat their way through the mow," is one formula for cutting labor on that portion of the feeding chores. That involves ground level storage of hay (and bedding too).

"Let the water do the running," is another good rule for labor saving. Use of plastic pipe is growing for farm installations.

Bulk handling and spreading of fertilizers or the use of liquid fertilizers that can be pumped instead of lifted is getting more attention from busy farmers, the engineers illustrated.

Spring-cushion tractor seat consists of suitable metal seat welded to a piece of pipe which telescopes into a second piece of pipe, the latter being welded to a plate for attaching to the tractor frame. Large coil spring is slipped over the pipe assembly to hold the seat a few inches above the lower pipe. In this way, weight of the drivers is carried on the spring, the second piece of pipe serving only to keep the seat in position.

Your Election Laws...

By Ted W. Brown
Secretary of State of Ohio

Many states have laws which require state-wide registration of all voters. Ohio law requires Boards of Elections to establish registration in every city of 16,000 population. Municipalities of less than 16,000 population may by ordinance elect to become a registration municipal corporation. The Board of Elections on its own initiative may establish and maintain registration of voters of any county or part of a county.

In Ohio there are only thirty-eight which have county-wide registration or registration in some portion of the county.

Of this number, only twenty-one have adopted county-wide registration; partial registration is in effect in seventeen counties.

A person who resides in registration territory must be registered in order to vote at any election. He may not sign a declaration of candidacy or nominating petition, initiative, referendum or recall petition unless he is registered as an elector.

There is no form of registration in 50 counties (including Pickaway) and in those counties in order to vote it is necessary merely to go to the polling place on election day provided, of course, that the person has the necessary qualifications to vote some of which are: one year residence in the State of Ohio, forty days residence in the county and the precinct; United States citizenship and twenty-one years of age or over.

The statutes do make an exception for the age provision in the case of a primary election. One who will be twenty-one years of age before the coming general election may vote at the primary election even though he is not twenty-one years of age on the day of the primary election. There is no exception made to other qualifications required of an elector.

County Gets Return In Liquor Fees

Pickaway County received $4,100 in liquor license fees from the state last week according to state auditor James A. Rhodes.

The county's share was part of $2,318,628.79 in license fees returned last week to local governments in the state. The distribution, the first such in 1957, is made to cities, villages and townships with licensed taverns. Distributions to nearby counties were as follows:

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My husband took me out to dinner the other evening and later we went dancing—our third dancing date since we married; so naturally I was a little stiff. We ran into friends of his (this is his hometown) and he asked them to join us.

The other wife is very pretty and friendly and has taken dancing lessons. Dick danced a good deal with her and I was left sitting. Once, when he said, "Do you want to dance?" I thought he meant me and started to rise; but he was speaking to her and I was terribly embarrassed.

I danced twice with her husband; refused a dance once, saying I was tired just then; and towards the end of the evening I suggested we go. But Dick said he wanted to stay, and they danced again. I was very hurt, and he was furious when I mentioned it after we got home. He said he didn't enjoy my stiff dancing. But I was trying. He may have danced seven dances with me; and five or more with Rita.

I wasn't angry with Rita, nor with Dick; but I talked to her next day and she talked to her husband, who called to say I shouldn't be upset. In fact he said I was wrong and my husband was right; and if I wanted to dance I should have asked. Indeed he practically said I was a fool for feeling hurt!

Now Joe has asked us to go dancing next Friday. He says he and his wife flirt a little and so should we; and dance with whom we please, regardless of rules of etiquette. I had always understood that only two dances with another person's partner were permissible, and that you never leave your partner sitting while you dance with others.

Please advise me what is right.

C. P.
DEAR C. P.: From the angle of common decency, no reasonable defense can be made of your husband's disloyalty. It was wrong of him to dance repeatedly with the other wife, when you were made unhappy by it. If they failed to recognize your distress, or just didn't care about you while they had fun, their emotional faculties are defective.

The fact is, your husband was indulging himself, with the other woman's tacit consent, in a flirtation that trampled your self-esteem and made a mockery, for the time being, of your real status. In that episode, Dick was slighting you, in favor of his own gratification—which is pretty stunted behavior, on a date with one's wife.

Actually it's no news to Dick that he misbehaved. He knows it and doesn't want to hear it. His furious anger on being reproached after getting home, also his continuing huffiness, are the reactions of a guilty man who isn't ready to come clean. He feels pretty low about the situation, mentally and morally; and in fighting your righteous desire to get things straight, he is fighting his own soul, really.

As for Joe, judged by his sentiments, he is the devil's advocate, it seems. Something is wrong with his character and his marriage. I take it; and he is scouting for converts to his school of error, and sees Dick as a likely prospect. My advice to you and Dick is to stay away from Rita and Joe, if you hope to rise above animal ignorance and attain to human wisdom, concerning life.

Conservation Group Asks Change In Law

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Ohio Conservation Congress wants the state to lift its restriction on out-of-state residents becoming Ohio public officials.

A resolution adopted at the closing session of the congress' three-day convention here Sunday said "the state should be encouraged and empowered to appoint to state office the best qualified personnel irrespective of the state of official residence of such personnel at the time of appointment."

In other resolutions, the Congress called for the state purchase of Cedar Point, which it said would improve recreational facilities along Lake Erie; more small boat launching ramps, especially in the Sandusky, Lorain and Cleveland areas, and a general survey of recreational facilities in Ohio.

Fred Shepherd of Columbus was elected director of new District 5, which includes the area around Columbus, and Fred Spangler of Columbus was named a director at large.

Officers re-elected were: Dr. B. K. Jones, Cambridge, president; H. Paul Young, Lancaster, first vice president; Lester Baringer, Canton, second vice president; Clarence Lappin, North Canton, assistant secretary, and Lawrence Poorman of Vandalia and Fred Brokaw of Cambridge, directors at large.

Daytonian Killed

DAYTON (AP)—William Saunders, 45, Dayton, was killed with a shotgun Sunday, police said, after he became involved in an argument with Lonnie Thomas, 29, a boarder in Saunders' home.

Musician Dies

CINCINNATI (AP)—Funeral services are planned here Tuesday for Dr. Sidney Caldwell Durst, 86, dean emeritus of the Cincinnati College of Music.

FARM ROUNDUP

Pickaway County farmers can obtain experienced advice and up-to-date literature on their farming problems at the County Extension Office located in the Post Office Building, S. Court St., Circleville. The office here is the link between district farmers and the College of Agriculture, Ohio State University.

Senior citizens note: If you've just celebrated your 40th birthday anniversary, it's still much too early to worry about getting old. You can expect to live another third of a century and some of your best years may still be ahead of you.

These were some of the things an Ohio State University professor of rural sociology told a Farm and Home Week audience.

"The average length of life has been extended until now the typical American can expect to live out his allotted three-score-and-ten," said A. R. Mangus. "This extension of average life to 70 years generally is hailed as a measure of progress. One of the greatest challenges of our times is how to make these later years productive, healthy and rewarding."

In the past, Mangus said, much emphasis has been placed on how to get more years in life. Now the emphasis must be given to how to get more life in the later years.

Mangus pointed out that when it comes to life expectancy, the men have less to cheer about than the women. On the female side, life expectancy now is 73 years. On the male side it is 67 years.

"If this means that women represent the stronger sex," the speaker said, "perhaps they need to use that superior strength to keep their husbands alive and to avoid the chances of widowhood."

The average age of farmers is among the highest of that of any major occupational group in the United States, according to Mangus. In Ohio, the average operating farmer is approaching his 51st birthday. More than 6 in 10 farmers already have celebrated their 45th birthdays, 4 in 10 are past 55 and 2 in 10 are past 65.

Successful modern farming requires constantly increasing efficiency, according to E. O. McLean, agronomist in the College of Agriculture at the Ohio State University, Columbus. Speaking before a Farm and Home Week audience, McLean described use of agricultural limestone as "one of those practices which serves as a pillar in a strong fertility program underlying a good farm management operation."

Pointing out that the need for lime in Ohio is eight times greater than the present rate of application, McLean summarized his presentation by explaining that lime actually functions as both a fertilizer and a neutralizer.

As a fertilizer, he said, lime adds calcium and possibly some dolomitic magnesium to the soil. It increases the base saturation of the soil making it easier for plants to obtain nutrients. It may be added to build up the limited supply of bases in the soil or to bring the nutrient situation into better balance. However, McLean cautioned, lime acts more slowly than most commercial fertilizers and thus requires planning ahead.

Lime affects crops in at least four ways, according to McLean. It increases yields, permits successful growth of crops not otherwise grown, affects chemical composition of crops grown, and affects the quality of crops grown.

As a neutralizer, lime cuts acidity; blocks iron and aluminum which otherwise would react with and tie up in unavailable forms the soluble phosphates applied; lowers the solubility of manganese which might otherwise be toxic to plants; stimulates microbes in the soil to decompose organic matter and stimulate nitrogen fixing bacteria.

The tonnage of feedstuffs, water, manure and fertilizer to be moved on the average farm requires more than a "strong back and weak mind," agricultural engineers demonstrated in two sessions during Farm and Home Week at Ohio State University.

The engineers, W. L. Roller, D. M. Byg and K. V. Battles, photographed many applications of power to the materials handling job on farms. Speaking from these action pictures as text, the extension men, described how silage may be fed automatically with an unloader at the top of the silo and conveyers extending through feed bunks.

Some of the principles, the engineers applied for Farm and Home Week visitors included: "Move it as little as possible. Let the animals self-feed. Handle larger amounts and make every trip count. Use machines to move materials automatically. Condense it."

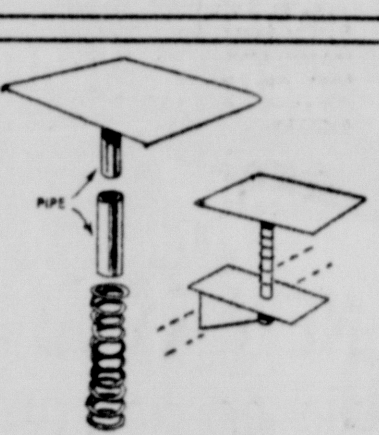

Bulk-handling of feeds is growing in Ohio, they said. With overhead storage of feeds, gravity does the work of placing the feed before livestock.

"Let cattle eat their way through the mow," is one formula for cutting labor on that portion of the feeding chores. That involves ground level storage of hay (a and bedding too).

"Let the water do the running," is another good rule for labor saving. Use of plastic pipe is growing for farm installations.

Bulk handling and spreading of fertilizers or the use of liquid fertilizers that can be pumped instead of lifted is getting more attention from busy farmers, the engineers illustrated.

Tractor Seat

Spring-cushion tractor seat consists of suitable metal seat welded to a piece of pipe which telescopes into a second piece of pipe, the latter being welded to a plate for attaching to the tractor frame. Large coil spring is slipped over the pipe assembly to hold the seat a few inches above the lower pipe. In this way, weight of the driver is carried on the spring, the second piece of pipe serving only to keep the seat in position.

Your Election Laws...

By Ted W. Brown
Secretary of State of Ohio

Many states have laws which require state-wide registration of all voters. Ohio law requires Boards of Elections to establish registration in every city of 16,000 population. Municipalities of less than 16,000 population may by ordinance elect to become a registration municipal corporation. The Board of Elections on its own initiative may establish and maintain registration of voters of any county or part of a county.

In Ohio there are only thirty-eight which have county-wide registration or registration in some portion of the county.

Of this number, only twenty-one have adopted county-wide registration; partial registration is in effect in seventeen counties.

A person who resides in registration territory must be registered in order to vote at any election. He may not sign a declaration of candidacy or nominating petition, initiative, referendum or recall petition unless he is registered as an elector.

There is no form of registration in 50 counties (including Pickaway) and in those counties in order to vote it is necessary merely to go to the polling place on election day provided, of course, that the person has the necessary qualifications to vote some of which are: one year residence in the State of Ohio, forty days residence in the county and the precinct; United States citizenship and twenty-one years of age or over.

The statutes do make an exception for the age provision in the case of a primary election. One who will be twenty-one years of age before the coming general election may vote at the primary election even though he is not twenty-one years of age on the day of the primary election. There is no exception made to other qualifications required of an elector.

Teamster Union Plays Big Role In Everyday Life

WASHINGTON (AP) — Practically everything you own and use — your furniture, bread, milk, laundry, clothes, beer, even the hearse that takes you on that final ride — is handled by a member of the Teamsters Union.

It's an organization with 1½ million members, mainly truck drivers and chauffeurs, but also production workers in various fields.

Nearly one out of every hundred people in the nation belongs and pays dues to the Teamsters Union.

It collects about 100 million dollars a year in dues and controls welfare funds several times that amount.

The statistics furnish an inkling of the inherent economic power of the giant labor union which, for more than a month, has been the main target of Senate racket investigators.

When James R. Hoffa, Teamsters midwest kingpin and vice president, was arrested here on charges of bribing an investigator for the racket committee, Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) said Hoffa "controls the nation's transportation system, except for railroads from the Rocky Mountains to the Atlantic Ocean."

This left out the far west, but there Frank W. Brewster, another union vice president, wields similar influence.

Over them, nominally at least, stands Dave Beck, the Teamsters Union general president. Beck has refused to tell McClellan's committee under oath — invoking the Fifth Amendment — what he has proclaimed publicly away from the committee; that he borrowed some $300,000 to $400,000 in union funds, but repaid it.

The Teamsters Union has been on the American scene a long time. Originally the teamsters were all wagon drivers. But with the advent of the gasoline engine, the union began recruiting motor vehicle drivers.

The Teamsters in 1940 dropped the word "stablemen" from their title and substituted the word "warehousemen," a fast-growing field for organizing in these days of modern merchandising.

The union's exact title today: the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen and Helpers of America.

The union grew and grew under the late President Dan Tobin, a Boston Irishman. Tobin called the shots on the old AFL council and, in frequent jurisdictional squabbles with other unions, generally won. The result was that the teamsters grabbed off jurisdiction — and members — in a lot of industries in which other unions claimed organizing rights.

Beck replaced the aging Tobin in 1952. He has done a job for his union. The union's membership now is at least 250,000 greater than it was when Beck took over. The union's contracts generally rank with the best in the country from the worker's standpoint.

The union membership, strangely enough, is not all workers. It has some employers, too. This is widely prevalent in the construction industry and also to a lesser extent in the milk, bread and other delivery systems.

These members are known as owner-operators. After the war, employers in construction and other industries decided they didn't want lots of money tied up in trucks. So they worked out deals for men owning their own trucks to work for them.

Lenten Services Listed Wednesday At 1st Methodist

The mid-week Lenten service at First Methodist Church Wednesday evening will feature Mrs. W. C. Taylor of Toledo in a dramatic presentation entitled "Portrait of Mary".

The evening's program, under the direction of the Woman's Society of Christian Service, will include a carry-in dinner at 6:30 p. m. in which all families of the church are invited.

Mrs. Taylor, secretary of Missionary Education of the Ohio Conference Woman's Society of Christian Service, is widely known for her dramatic work, which is especially appropriate for the Lenten season. The public is invited to attend the program at 8 p. m. in the church sanctuary. Baby sitters will be provided for pre-school age children.

Recluse Gets Her Pyramid, But Small One

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y. (AP)—Miss Florence Groff's last wish has been fulfilled — her earthly remains rest under a pyramid. But the pyramid is just a chip of what she really wanted.

Miss Groff, a recluse who lived alone for years in a debris-littered old house in Hastings-on-Hudson, N. Y., died in 1948 at an age of more than 90.

In her will, she directed that her $40,000 estate be used to erect a pyramid over her family's burial plot at Cincinnati's Spring Grove Cemetery. She wanted one with a base large enough to cover the entire 425 square feet of the plot.

Distant relatives contested the will but in 1952 a compromise was worked out. It was agreed that up to $10,000 could be spent on a smaller monument.

Saturday, Westchester County Public Administrator Kenneth C. Cole reported that the pyramid had been erected in Cincinnati — with a base six feet square and a height of six feet.

Cole said it cost $7,000. The remainder of the estate will go to the relatives.

Miss Groff was the daughter of the late Dr. William T. Groff of Cincinnati, a noted Egyptologist and archeologist. Miss Groff and other members of the family went with him on many trips to the Middle East.

It was this background which gave Miss Groff a desire to be buried with her family under the age-old symbol of the ancient Egyptian pharaohs.

Her father, mother and a brother all died abroad and were buried there. In her will she also asked that their bodies be returned for reburial with hers in the Cincinnati plot. They were brought back in 1954.

Teamster Union Plays Big Role In Everyday Life

WASHINGTON (AP) — Practically everything you own and use — your furniture, bread, milk, laundry, clothes, beer, even the house that takes you on that final ride — is handled by a member of the Teamsters Union.

It's an organization with 1 1/2 million members, mainly truck drivers and chauffeurs, but also production workers in various fields.

Nearly one out of every hundred people in the nation belongs and pays dues to the Teamsters Union.

It collects about 100 million dollars a year in dues and controls welfare funds several times that amount.

The statistics furnish an inkling of the inherent economic power of the giant labor union which, for more than a month, has been the main target of Senate racket investigators.

When James R. Hoffa, Teamsters' midwest kingpin and vice president, was arrested here on charges of bribing an investigator for the racketeering committee, Chairman McClellan (D-Ark.) said Hoffa "controls the nation's transportation system, except for railroads from the Rocky Mountains to the Atlantic Ocean."

This left out the far west, but there Frank W. Brewster, another union vice president, wields similar influence.

Over them, nominally at least, stands Dave Beck, the Teamsters' Union general president. Beck has refused to tell McClellan's committee under oath — invoking the Fifth Amendment — what he has proclaimed publicly away from the committee; that he borrowed some $300,000 to $400,000 in union funds, but repaid it.

The Teamsters Union has been on the American scene a long time. Originally the teamsters were all wagon drivers. But with the advent of the gasoline engine, the union began recruiting motor vehicle drivers.

The Teamsters in 1940 dropped the word "stablemen" from their title and substituted the word "warehousemen," a fast-growing field for organizing in these days of modern merchandising.

The union's exact title today: the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen and Helpers of America.

The union grew and grew under the late President Dan Tobin, a Boston Irishman. Tobin called the shots on the old AFL council and, in frequent jurisdictional squabbles with other unions, generally won. The result was that the teamsters grabbed off jurisdiction — and members — in a lot of industries in which other unions claimed organizing rights.

Beck replaced the aging Tobin in 1952. He has done a job for his union. The union's membership now is at least 250,000 greater than it was when Beck took over. The union's contracts generally rank with the best in the country from the worker's standpoint.

The union membership, strangely enough, is not all workers. It has some employers, too. This is widely prevalent in the construction industry and also to a lesser extent in the milk, bread and other delivery systems.

These members are known as owner-operators. After the war, employers in construction and other industries decided they didn't want lots of money tied up in trucks. So they worked out deals for men owning their own trucks to work for them.

Lenten Services Listed Wednesday At 1st Methodist

The mid-week Lenten service at First Methodist Church Wednesday evening will feature Mrs. W. C. Taylor of Toledo in a dramatic presentation entitled "Portrait of Mary".

The evening's program, under the direction of the Woman's Society of Christian Service, will include a carry-in dinner at 6:30 p. m. in which all families of the church are invited.

Mrs. Taylor, secretary of Missionary Education of the Ohio Conference Woman's Society of Christian Service, is widely known for her dramatic work, which is especially appropriate for the Lenten season. The public is invited to attend the program at 8 p. m. in the church sanctuary. Baby sitters will be provided for pre-school age children.

Old Granddad Hurt

COLUMBUS (AP) — Donald Sullivan, 33, Columbus, faces a charge of assault after he told police Sunday he beat up his 96-year-old grandfather "just because I got mad at him." The grandfather, William A. Wray, was charged with intoxication.

Recluse Gets Her Pyramid, But Small One

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y. (AP)—Miss Florence Groff's last wish has been fulfilled — her earthly remains rest under a pyramid. But the pyramid is just a chip of what she really wanted.

Miss Groff, a recluse who lived alone for years in a debris-littered old house in Hastings-on-Hudson, N. Y., died in 1948 at an age of more than 90.

In her will, she directed that her $40,000 estate be used to erect a pyramid over her family's burial plot at Cincinnati's Spring Grove Cemetery. She wanted one with a base large enough to cover the entire 425 square feet of the plot.

Distant relatives contested the will but in 1952 a compromise was worked out. It was agreed that up to $10,000 could be spent on a smaller monument.

Saturday, Westchester County Public Administrator Kenneth C. Cole reported that the pyramid had been erected in Cincinnati — with a base six feet square and a height of six feet.

Cole said it cost $7,000. The remainder of the estate will go to the relatives.

Miss Groff was the daughter of the late Dr. William T. Groff of Cincinnati, a noted Egyptologist and archeologist. Miss Groff and other members of the family went with him on many trips to the Middle East.

It was this background which gave Miss Groff a desire to be buried with her family under the age-old symbol of the ancient Egyptian pharaohs.

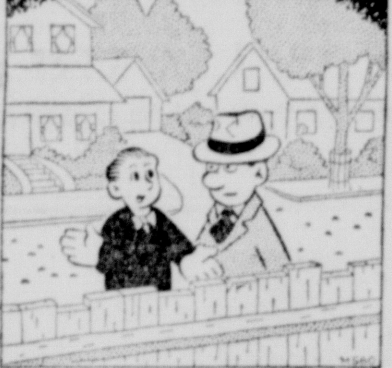

Her father, mother and a brother all died abroad and were buried there. In her will she also asked that their bodies be returned for reburial with hers in the Cincinnati plot. They were brought back in 1954.

Oddball Baseball Is Noted On April Fools Day

'56 7th-Place Bucs
Stand At Top Of This Year's Prep Season

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
It's April Fools Day and, appropriately enough, strange things are happening in major league baseball.

The seventh-place National League team of 1956 has the best exhibition record of 1957. The perfect World Series game pitcher is getting clobbered. A Chicago Cubs' first baseman hits a home run, then is returned to the minors after only three days with the big league club.

The Pittsburgh Pirates (13-6) moved to the top of the exhibition standings Sunday when Bobby Friend pitched five-hit ball over the nine inning route to down the St. Louis Cardinals 5-1. Bill Virdon, with three hits, and Ramon Mejias and Dick Rand, with a couple each, paced the winners.

Don Larsen was the winning pitcher as the New York Yankees trounced the Kansas City A's 7-3.
The big right-hander, who shackled Brooklyn hitless gave up 10 hits in seven frames. He has yielded 9 runs and 20 hits in 15 spring training innings. Joe Collins homered for the Yanks. Vic Power of the A's had a 4-for-4 day, including a four-bagger.

The Philadelphia Phillies lost 3-1 to Cincinnati and also nearly lost the services of Willie Jones, their veteran third baseman. Willie was hit on the forehead by a ball thrown by Redleg shortstop Alex Grammas, who was attempting to complete a double play. Jones is one of the few major leaguers who wears a plastic helmet while on the base paths, so he'll be sidelined only for a few days.

Behind the two-hit hurling of rookie Dick Drott, the Cubs edged the New York Giants 3-2. Both Giants runs came as a result of home runs, by Gail Harris and Dusty Rhodes.

Later the Cubs announced the acquisition of first baseman Ed Mickelson from Portland of the Pacific Coast League. In return, Chicago gave up Joe Macko, George Freese, a third baseman, and cash.

Macko was brought up from Los Angeles last Thursday. He hit a home run in his first game.
Cleveland and Boston share the exhibition lead among American League clubs with 11-9 records.

The Indians walloped the Baltimore Orioles 8-3 behind the solid pitching of Bob Lemon and Hank Aguirre. Rookie outfielder Roger Maris and veteran catcher Jim Hegan homered for the Tribe.

Jackie Jensen's three-run homer was the Red Sox's margin of victory over New Orleans of the Southern Assn. Bob Porterfield, Dick Sisler and Ike Delock combined for the 3-0 decision.

In other games, the Milwaukee Braves blew a 7-0 lead, then came on to nip the Washington Senators 8-7 on Felix Mantilla's 12th inning homer; the Chicago White Sox drubbed the Brooklyn Dodgers 7-1 on the combined three-hit hurling of Dick Donovan and Jim Wilson; and Charleston of the American Assn. knocked off the parent Detroit Tigers 8-2. Most of the Tiger regulars had the day off.

Milwaukee Manager Decides '56 Team Can Win In '57

Editor's Note: Here is another in a series of articles appraising the 1957 major league baseball teams.

By JOE REICHLER

BRADENTON, Fla. (P) — The Milwaukee Braves have decided to stand pat because Manager Fred Haney is convinced the same hands who frittered away the pennant last year will win it this year.

Not many will agree with standpat Fred because the usual procedure for a defeated club is to try to strengthen its weakest hand.

"I honestly believe this team can win the pennant the way it stands right now," Haney said.
"Remember, none of our men had a really big year last season...and I include Henry Aaron. Even if he

Gen. Duke Tagged As Derby Favorite

MIAMI (P)—General Duke from Mrs. Gene Markey's Calumet Farm has established himself as the favorite for the Kentucky Derby in a race run so fast that all five entries beat the track record.
The brown son of Bull Lea, with Willie Hartack handling the reins, hit the finish line in 1:46.2 to equal the world record in the $123,600 Florida Derby Saturday.

Wheatley Stable's Bold Ruler, the favorite on the basis of his nose triumph over Gen. Duke in the recent Flamingo, trailed by 1 1/2 lengths after giving way to the Calumet ace in the stretch. And Iron Liege, another Calumet Kentucky Derby eligible, was just a head back of the Ruler.

In the state bowling tournament held yesterday in Barbenton.

At present the local team holds down sixth place in the state tournament with final results still pending. The local keepers compiled a team total of 3,031 pins.

Celtics, Hawks Tied In Series For Pro Title

BOSTON (P)—The Boston Celtics and St. Louis Hawks, tied in their final National Basketball Assn. playoff series, today wondered which team will be hurt the most by a five-day layoff.

The players aren't saying much but there was a feeling after the Celtics knotted the best-of-seven competition 1-1 Sunday that nobody liked it.

The third game will be in St.
Louis Saturday night and the fourth Sunday.

After losing a 125-123 double overtime verdict Saturday, the Celtics ran away from St. Louis
119-99 Sunday.

Boston guard Bill Sharman explained the difference in the two games:

"That long layoff from game competition since last Sunday threw us off Saturday. It threw us off on our timing as well as our conditioning.

"Well, we have another layoff this week before our two games at St. Louis and you can be sure the players don't like it. They're trying to make a major league out of the NBA but they're certainly running it bush league."

Hawks' coach Alex Hannum was far from disappointed at the outcome of the game.

"We wanted one win in the two games here and we got it," Han-num said.

The tight Boston defense was geared especially for scoring ace
Bob Pettit and fiery guard Slater Martin. Pettit, who had tallied 37 the first game, was held to 11 points by Jim Loscutoff. Martin dropped from 23 to eight points with Bob Cousy guarding him.

DeMolay Quintet Wins At Columbus

Circleville's DeMolay basketball squad posted a 58 to 41 victory over the Columbus Alladin Chapter in a contest played yesterday at Whetstone Park in Columbus.

The victory for the local cagers was in district DeMolay competition. The win qualifies them to play in a state tournament which will be held Friday in Youngstown.

Pete Martin, hitting for 22 points, paced yesterday's march to victory. Teammate Eddie Tomlin-son assisted with 14.

The Circleville quintet is coached by Bill Ankrom, former Monroe Township High School cage star.

3 Tiger Coaches Attend Grid Clinic

Circleville High School coaches
Tom Bennett, Dick Boyd and Red Courtney attended a high school football coaches clinic held Saturday in Upper Arlington.

The clinic was well-attended by high school grid coaches from this part of the state.

Next Friday and Saturday Bennett and Boyd plan to attend another football clinic at the University of Cincinnati. This clinic will feature Coach Forrest Evasheksi of the University of Iowa, last year's Big Ten champions, and Jim Howell, coach of last season's professional champions, the New York Giants.

Tiger Baseballers Open Season Tuesday Against Chillicothe Nine

Coach Dick Boyd's Circleville High School baseballers get their first taste of action Tuesday when they travel to Chillicothe for the 1957 season opener.

The CHS squad opens its home schedule the following day at Ted Lewis Park in a league contest with Franklin Heights, the South Central Ohio League's newest addition in athletic competition.

Although the local hardballers have been limited in outside practice so far, Coach Boyd said his squad seems to be pretty well set for the opener with always tough Chillicothe. Most practice sessions to date have been held in the gym due to bad weather.

Work in the gym has consisted mostly of running, fielding, throwing and sliding, coach Boyd reported. The few days of outside practice were centered around hitting and fielding he added.

AT PRESENT the squad has been cut to 23 players who show plenty of promise. Although most of last year's league championship team was lost through graduation, Boyd said that a good crop of sophomores and juniors should help solve his replacement problems.

The Tiger diamond corps will be headed by lettermen Mike Hosler and Dick Banks, the team's two leading hitters last year. Hosler is slated to see double duty as a pitcher and centerfielder and Banks will probably get the nod for second base duty.

Boyd said he is not sure of his starting pitcher Tuesday although it will probably be Hosler. If so, Don Rowland will likely be on the mound against Franklin Heights on Wednesday.

The starters and their probable batting order is as follows:

Roger Magill, lf; Cal Ellis, ss; Hosler, p-cf; Banks, 2b; Ray Phifer, 3b; Rowland, cf-p; Dick Greenlee, rf; Dave Smith, 1b; Neil Sark, c.

Junior Johnny Wright, who can do about anything on a baseball diamond but pitch, will be counted on to fill in wherever needed.

A SOPHOMORE slated to see plenty of action during the season is Joe Adkins who has all the earmarks of becoming a top-notch relief pitcher.

Another underclassman showing plenty of hustle and promise is first baseman Dave Smith, a freshman. His ability displayed so far has earned him a berth on the starting nine.

Billy Meyer, 65 Dies In Knoxville

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (P)—Death has claimed baseball's William Adam (Billy) Meyer, major league "manager of the year" with the underdog Pittsburgh Pirates in 1948. He died in a hospital Sunday.

The 65-year-old veteran of 46 years as player, manager, scout, and "trouble shooter" died of a heart and kidney ailment after a prolonged illness. He retired in 1955 after a stroke left him partly

FORMER star at Oklahoma and an assistant coach at Texas A. & M., Jim Owens (above) has been appointed new head football coach at the University of Washington. Owens succeeds Darrell Royal, a former Sooner teammate, who resigned to take over the head coaching job at Texas. (International)

Airmen Cop Title In AAU Tourney

DENVER (P)—Two former collegians now in uniform, Stanford's Ron Tomsic and St. Louis' Dick Boushka, can take much of the credit today for the first National AAU basketball crown won by the Air Force.

The 1956 U. S. Olympic teammates powered the Air Force All-Stars to an 87-74 triumph over the San Francisco Olympic club and the title Saturday night.

Third place in the 50th annual tournament went to Peoria, a member of the National Industrial Basketball League, with a 76-71 win over the defending champion Seattle Bakers.

Palmer Collects Purse At Azalea

WILMINGTON, N. C. (P)—Although he outshot only four of the 24 other money winners in the Azalea Open Golf Tournament's final round, Arnold Palmer's 54-hole lead stood up and he eased
ey.

Phillie Hurt In Contest With Redlegs

CLEARWATER, Fla. (P)—Third-sacker Willie Jones of the Philadelphia Phillies, sought this season by the trade-eager Cincinnati Redlegs, has a king-size headache
today—courtesy of the Reds.

Jones was sidelined indefinitely
Sunday when struck on the head by a relay thrown by Redleg Alex Grammas, during some double play action in an exhibition game between the two teams, won by Cincinnati, 3-1.

The ball, that caught Jones between first and second, left its imprint and a forehead gash that took six stitches to close.

Jones said, "It's a good thing I was wearing my helmet. If I had had my cloth cap on, I'd probably be dead right now."

The doctor who treated the wound said X-rays showed no fracture or concussion and that Jones might return to the lineup in several days.

The injury was a small help to the Phillies. It enabled rookie Harry Anderson to score easily from second—Philadelphia's only run of the day.

Ted Kluszewski's first double of the training season, in the eighth inning, with the score tied brought Art Schult home with what proved the winning run for Cincinnati.

Then bonus rookie Bob Henrich took over as Klu's pinch-runner, reached third and darted home with an insurance marker when Phillie rookie Ed Bouchee cut off a throw to the plate.

The Reds raked Jim Hearn and Granny Hamner for eight hits, including a homer by Pete Whisenant in the fourth inning.

The Phillies collected seven hits off Johnny Klippstein, who took the win, and Russ Meyer.

out with a one-stroke victory that added $1,700 to his earnings.

The 27-year-old Latrobe, Pa., professional finished Sunday with a lack-luster 75, three over par on the 6,800-yard Cape Fear Country Club course, but it was good enough for a winning 282 total, one shot less than runnerup Dow Finsterwald of Athens, Ohio, needed in winning $1,300 second money.

April Fools Day

'56 7th-Place Bucs Stand At Top Of This Year's Prep Season

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
It's April Fools Day and, appropriately enough, strange things are happening in major league baseball.

The seventh-place National League team of 1956 has the best exhibition record of 1957. The perfect World Series game pitcher is getting clobbered. A Chicago Cubs' first baseman hits a home run, then is returned to the minors after only three days with the big league club.

The Pittsburgh Pirates (13-6) moved to the top of the exhibition standings Sunday when Bobby Friend pitched five-hit ball over the nine inning route to down the St. Louis Cardinals 5-1. Bill Virdon, with three hits, and Ramon Mejias and Dick Rand, with a couple each, paced the winners.

Don Larsen was the winning pitcher as the New York Yankees trounced the Kansas City A's 7-3. The big right-hander, who was shackled by Brooklyn hitless, gave up 10 hits in seven frames. He has yielded 9 runs and 20 hits in 15 spring training innings. Joe Collins homered for the Yanks. Vic Power of the A's had a 4-for-4 day, including a four-bagger.

The Philadelphia Phillies lost 3-1 to Cincinnati and also nearly lost the services of Willie Jones, their veteran third baseman. Willie was hit on the forehead by a ball thrown by Redleg shortstop Alex Grammas, who was attempting to complete a double play. Jones is one of the few major leaguers who wears a plastic helmet while on the base paths, so he'll be sidelined only for a few days.

Behind the two-hit hurling of rookie Dick Drott, the Cubs edged the New York Giants 3-2. Both Giants runs came as a result of home runs, by Gail Harris and Dusty Rhodes.

Later the Cubs announced the acquisition of first baseman Ed Mickelson from Portland of the Pacific Coast League. In return, Chicago gave up Joe Macko, George Freese, a third baseman, and cash.

Macko was brought up from Los Angeles last Thursday. He hit a home run in his first game.

Cleveland and Boston share the exhibition lead among American League clubs with 11-9 records.

The Indians walloped the Baltimore Orioles 8-3 behind the solid pitching of Bob Lemon and Hank Aguirre. Rookie outfielder Roger Maris and veteran catcher Jim Hegan homered for the Tribe.

Jackie Jensen's three-run homer was the Red Sox's margin of victory over New Orleans of the Southern Assn. Bob Porterfield, Dick Sisler and Ike Delock combined for the 3-0 decision.

In other games, the Milwaukee Braves blew a 7-0 lead, then came on to nip the Washington Senators 8-7 on Felix Mantilla's 12th inning homer; the Chicago White Sox drubbed the Brooklyn Dodgers 7-1 on the combined three-hit hurling of Dick Donovan and Jim Wilson; and Charleston of the American Assn. knocked off the parent Detroit Tigers 8-2. Most of the Tiger regulars had the day off.

Milwaukee Manager Decides '56 Team Can Win In '57

Editor's Note: Here is another in a series of articles appraising the 1957 major league baseball teams.

By JOE REICHLER
BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves have decided to stand pat because Manager Fred Haney is convinced the same hands who frittered away the pennant last year will win it this year.

Not many will agree with standpat Fred because the usual procedure for a defeated club is to try to strengthen its weakest hand.

"I honestly believe this team can win the pennant the way it stands right now," Haney said. "Remember, none of our men had a really big year last season...and I include Henry Aaron. Even if he

Gen. Duke Tagged As Derby Favorite

MIAMI (AP)—General Duke from Mrs. Gene Markey's Calumet Farm has established himself as the favorite for the Kentucky Derby in a race run so fast that all five entries beat the track record. The brown son of Bull Lea, with Willie Hartack handling the reins, hit the finish line in 1:46.2 to equal the world record in the $123,600 Florida Derby Saturday.

Wheatley Stable's Bold Ruler, the favorite on the basis of his nose triumph over Gen. Duke in the recent Flamingo, trailed by 1 1/2 lengths after giving way to the Calumet ace in the stretch. And Iron Liege, another Calumet Kentucky Derby eligible, was just a head back of the Ruler.

In the state bowling tournament held yesterday in Barberton, at present the local team holds down sixth place in the state tournament with final results still pending. The local leaders compiled a team total of 3,031 pins.

Celtics, Hawks Tied In Series For Pro Title

BOSTON (AP)—The Boston Celtics and St. Louis Hawks, tied in their final National Basketball Assn. playoff series, today wondered which team will be hurt the most by a five-day layoff.

The players aren't saying much but there was a feeling after the Celtics knotted the best-of-seven competition 1-1 Sunday that nobody liked it.

The third game will be in St. Louis Saturday night and the fourth Sunday.

After losing a 125-123 double overtime verdict Saturday, the Celtics ran away from St. Louis 119-99 Sunday.

Boston guard Bill Sharman explained the difference in the two games:

"That long layoff from game competition since last Sunday threw us off Saturday. It threw us off on our timing as well as our conditioning."

"Well, we have another layoff this week before our two games at St. Louis and you can be sure the players don't like it. They're trying to make a major league out of the NBA but they're certainly running it bush league."

Hawks' coach Alex Hannum was far from disappointed at the outcome of the game.

"We wanted one win in the two games here and we got it," Hannum said.

The tight Boston defense was geared especially for scoring ace Bob Pettit and fiery guard Slater Martin. Pettit, who had tallied 37 the first game, was held to 11 points by Jim Loscutoff. Martin dropped from 23 to eight points with Bob Cousy guarding him.

DeMolay Quintet Wins At Columbus

Circleville's DeMolay basketball squad posted a 58 to 41 victory over the Columbus Alladin Chapter in a contest played yesterday at Whetstone Park in Columbus.

The victory for the local cagers was in district DeMolay competition. The win qualifies them to play in a state tournament which will be held Friday in Youngstown.

Pete Martin, hitting for 22 points, paced yesterday's march to victory. Teammate Eddie Tomlinson assisted with 14.

The Circleville quintet is coached by Bill Ankrom, former Monroe Township High School cage star.

3 Tiger Coaches Attend Grid Clinic

Circleville High School coaches Tom Bennett, Dick Boyd and Red Courtney attended a high school football coaches clinic held Saturday in Upper Arlington.

The clinic was well-attended by high school grid coaches from this part of the state.

Next Friday and Saturday Bennett and Boyd plan to attend another football clinic at the University of Cincinnati. This clinic will feature Coach Forrest Evaschski of the University of Iowa, last year's Big Ten champions, and Jim Howell, coach of last season's professional champions, the New York Giants.

Tiger Baseballers Open Season Tuesday Against Chillicothe Nine

Coach Dick Boyd's Circleville High School baseballers get their first taste of action Tuesday when they travel to Chillicothe for the 1957 season opener.

The CHS squad opens its home schedule the following day at Ted Lewis Park in a league contest with Franklin Heights, the South Central Ohio League's newest addition in athletic competition.

Although the local hardballers have been limited in outside practice so far, Coach Boyd said his squad seems to be pretty well set for the opener with always tough Chillicothe. Most practice sessions to date have been held in the gym due to bad weather.

Work in the gym has consisted mostly of running, fielding, throwing and sliding, coach Boyd reported. The few days of outside practice were centered around hitting and fielding he added.

AT PRESENT the squad has been cut to 23 players who show plenty of promise. Although most of last year's league championship team was lost through graduation, Boyd said that a good crop of sophomores and juniors should help solve his replacement problems.

The Tiger diamond corps will be headed by lettermen Mike Hosler and Dick Banks, the team's two leading hitters last year. Hosler is slated to see double duty as a pitcher and centerfielder and Banks will probably get the nod for second base duty.

Boyd said he is not sure of his starting pitcher Tuesday although it will probably be Hosler. If so, Don Rowland will likely be on the mound against Franklin Heights on Wednesday.

The starters and their probable batting order is as follows: Roger Magill, lf; Cal Ellis, ss; Hosler, p-cf; Banks, 2b; Ray Phifer, 3b; Rowland, cf-p; Dick Greenlee, rf; Dave Smith, 1b; Neil Sark, c.

Junior Johnny Wright, who can do anything on a baseball diamond but pitch, will be counted on to fill in wherever needed.

A SOPHOMORE slated to see plenty of action during the season is Joe Adkins who has all the earmarks of becoming a top-notch relief pitcher.

Another underclassman showing plenty of hustle and promise is first baseman Dave Smith, a freshman. His ability displayed so far has earned him a berth on the starting nine.

Billy Meyer, 65 Dies In Knoxville

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Death has claimed baseball's William Adam (Billy) Meyer, major league "manager of the year" with the underdog Pittsburgh Pirates in 1948. He died in a hospital Sunday.

The 65-year-old veteran of 46 years as player, manager, scout, and "trouble shooter" died of a heart and kidney ailment after a prolonged illness. He retired in 1935 after a stroke left him partly paralyzed in the left side.

His hitting attack, which has become formidable after limping through the first part of the training season, included a home run by catcher Jim Hegan, a triple by Sam Mele and a double by Joe Altobelli. In all, the Tribe collected 10 hits off pitchers Ray Moore and Erv Palica.

Bob Lemon and Hank Aguirre limited the Orioles to only three hits, with Aguirre retiring the nine batters who faced him in order.

Total County Taxes Paid In State Disclosed

County taxes paid by Ohioans last year totalled more than 620 million dollars, State Auditor James A. Rhodes reports.

The total was almost $58 million more than the tax collections in 1955.

After deducting auditors' fees and making refunds, $437,896,140.06 in real estate taxes; $132,962,228.40 in personal property taxes, and $27,861,940.78 in intangible taxes were distributed as follows:

FROM REAL ESTATE TAXES—Schools, $267,975,302.18; cities and villages, $97,783,872.22; counties, $57,183,837.62; townships, $19,481.08; state (World War 2 bonus), $3,361,646.96.

From personal property taxes—Schools, $79,235,178.74; cities and villages, $32,337,226.09; counties, $17,386,439.51; townships, $2,966,304.84; state (bonus), $1,037,079.22.

From the intangible tax—Local subdivisions, mostly libraries, $27,792,285.96; state, $69,654.82.

More than 59 percent of the county collected taxes went for schools.

Los Angeles Sees Oil Boom Within City

Oil companies are leasing up large residential areas within the city limits. If the city council approves, the companies will start slant drilling under the homes from a removed, or even secluded, drill site.

Oil men say this current activity probably was set off by the successful drilling on the lot of 20th Century-Fox film studio, which is within the city limits and immediately adjacent to Beverly Hills. Also, the rate of oil production in California has been declining and oil men are sniffing around for new fields. Eleven electrically powered wells on the 20th Century-Fox lot are producing about 3,000 barrels a day.

Last Friday the city council

U.S. Farmers Shift Sights To Used Tractors, Equipment

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department reported today farmers are buying more used tractors and other farm equipment this spring in an effort to offset rising costs of new machines.

The agency said new farm tractor prices are averaging 6 per cent higher than a year earlier. This increase reflects both price increases in the individual units and the purchase of additional accessories and extras.

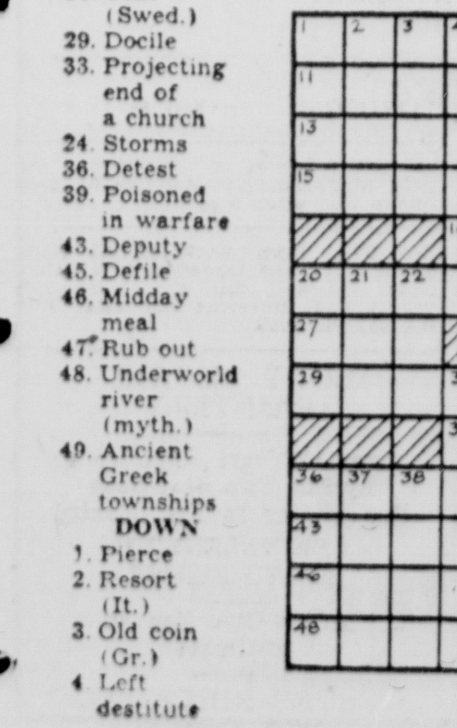

Prices of other new machinery was said to be up 5 per cent from a year ago. Sharpest increases were reported for equipment used for spring tillage and seeding operations, such as drills, planters and manure spreaders.

Farm household expenses have gone up too. The department said farm clothing prices are nearly 3 per cent higher than a year ago. Retail prices paid for the principal foods bought by farmers were said to be averaging about 4 per cent higher.

THE DEPARTMENT also reports that farmers have signed agreements to retire 4,762,000 acres of their poorer land for three or more years under the conservation reserve phase of the Soil Bank Program.

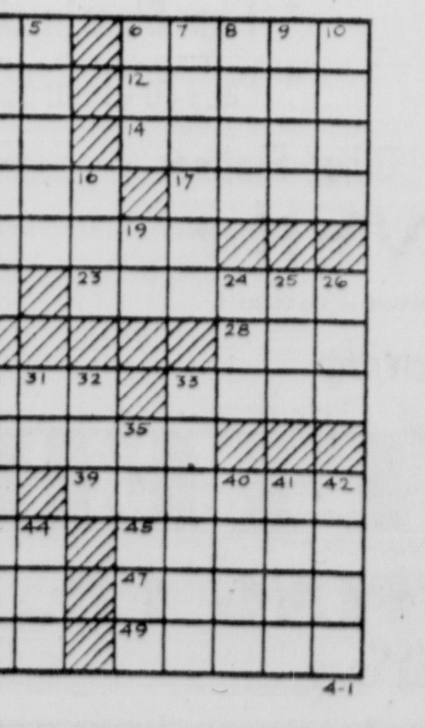

This is in addition to nearly 21 million acres they have agreed to retire this year from cotton, corn, wheat, rice and tobacco under the acreage reserve phase of the same program. They would earn $584,873,000 in payments.

Federal payments under the conservation reserve would total $42,318,000. The deadline for signing retirement agreements for 1957 with the Agriculture Department is April 15.

With sign-up for the acreage reserve now being completed, it now appears that the department may save upwards of $450 million of the $1.2 billion authorized for the soil bank plan this year, because of failure of some farmers to participate.

Baker Is Favored To Trim German

NEW YORK (AP)—Bob Baker, veteran Pittsburgh heavyweight contender, is favored over Germany's Willi Besmanoff in the 10-round feature at New York's St. Nicholas Arena tonight.

Besmanoff, 24, a 190-pounder, has won 12 straight but has met no one near Baker's class. A win over the 6-2, 210-pound Baker could move the German into the top flight. Besmanoff's record is 34-6-7, Baker's 47-8-1.

Total County Taxes Paid In State Disclosed

County taxes paid by Ohioans last year totalled more than 620 million dollars, State Auditor James A. Rhodes reports.

They paid $441,265,368 in real estate and public utility taxes; $134,425,810 in personal property taxes; $28,209,307 in intangible taxes, and $16,496,456 in special assessments.

The total was almost $58 million more than the tax collections in 1955.

After deducting auditors' fees and making refunds, $437,896,140.06 in real estate taxes; $132,962,228.40 in personal property taxes, and $27,861,940.78 in intangible taxes were distributed as follows:

FROM REAL estate taxes—Schools, $267,975,302.18; cities and villages, $97,783,872.22; counties, $57,183,837.62; townships, $12,591,481.08; state (World War 2 bonus), $3,361,646.96.

From personal property taxes—Schools, $79,235,178.74; cities and villages, $32,337,226.09; counties, $17,386,439.51; townships, $2,966,304.84; state (bonus), $1,037,079.22.

From the intangible tax—Local subdivisions, mostly libraries, $27,792,285.96; state, $69,654.82.

Los Angeles Sees Oil Boom Within City

Oil companies are leasing up large residential areas within the city limits. If the city council approves, the companies will start slant drilling under the homes from a removed, or even secluded, drill site.

Oil men say this current activity probably was set off by the successful drilling on the lot of 20th Century-Fox film studio, which is within the city limits and immediately adjacent to Beverly Hills. Also, the rate of oil production in California has been declining and oil men are sniffing around for new fields. Eleven electrically powered wells on the 20th Century-Fox lot are producing about 3,000 barrels a day.

U.S. Farmers Shift Sights To Used Tractors, Equipment

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department reported today farmers are buying more used tractors and other farm equipment this spring in an effort to offset rising costs of new machines.

The agency said new farm tractor prices are averaging 6 per cent higher than a year earlier. This increase reflects both price increases in the individual units and the purchase of additional accessories and extras.

Prices of other new machinery was said to be up 5 per cent from a year ago. Sharper increases were reported for equipment used for spring tillage and seeding operations, such as drills, planters and manure spreaders.

Farm household expenses have gone up too. The department said farm clothing prices are nearly 3 per cent higher than a year ago. Retail prices paid for the principal foods bought by farmers were said to be averaging about 4 per cent higher.

THE DEPARTMENT also reports that farmers have signed agreements to retire 4,762,000 acres of their poorer land for three or more years under the conservation reserve phase of the Soil Bank Program.

This is in addition to nearly 21 million acres they have agreed to retire this year from cotton, corn, wheat, rice and tobacco under the acreage reserve phase of the same program. They would earn $584,873,000 in payments.

ATOMIC ENGINEER LIVES IN FUTURE AND ALSO THE PAST!

Stewart opens a parts crate in the "atomic village" as several of his aides look on.

Tokyo, Japan — For part of his day, Robert C. Stewart of Los Angeles, Calif., moves in the complex world of atomic energy. When he goes home at night, though, he and his family suddenly find themselves living under conditions almost primitive in nature.

This strange, double life comes about through Stewart's job as a special engineer assigned to direct construction of Japan's first nuclear reactor. This atomic research power plant was designed by Stewart's company, Atomics International of Canoga, Calif.

Last winter, Stewart was sent to Japan by the firm to supervise assembly of the giant 50 kilowatt "water boiler" type reactor. Delivery of the plant was the first such commercial transaction between the United States and a foreign country.

The atomic fuel to be used in the reactor also is the first leased under a recent export license granted by the U. S. Atomic Energy commission to Japan.

AS A RESULT of these top-level

international agreements, Stewart is busy during the day in Tokai village, a tiny coastal community about 70 miles north of Tokyo.

At night, though, Stewart returns to his quarters where his family finds conditions some distance away from being the most modern, let alone atomic-powered. Their rooms are heated by a "hibachi", a tiny charcoal brazier that isn't much improvement over the type of heating devices used in feudal Europe and the Orient 500 years ago.

Rather than heat an entire room, the "hibachi" is designed to be used under a blanket. A family will huddle around it with their hands and feet virtually on top of the weakly glowing coals with the rest of their bodies exposed to the cold.

The traditional Japanese house with its thin, wooden slat walls and paper sliding doors is quite picturesque. However, the Stewarts have found this type of dwelling to be no deterrent to the bitterly cold winds that sweep down across Japan much of the year.

"We have a couple of gas heaters now," Stewart says, "but they

Westinghouse Cuts Back To 4-Day Week

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Westinghouse Electric Corp.'s major appliance plant here begins operating on a four-day week today to cut expenses.

A plant spokesman said the curtailment in production will continue "until general market conditions warrant a return to a five-day week."

Westinghouse also said an additional 300 production employees at its Mansfield plant will be "furloughed" beginning Thursday. A spokesman said this would bring to a total of 965 employees who have been laid off there temporarily since March 4.

In Columbus, the company manufactures refrigerators, freezers, dishwashers and combination washer-dryers. The Mansfield plant makes automatic washers, clothes dryers, electric ranges, irons, toasters, roasters, fry pans and other non-motorized portable appliances.

The company said the layoffs and four-day week were necessitated by over-production.

Ashtabula Sees Lake Fleet Blessed

ASHTABULA (AP)—About 1,000 persons met at the harbor here Sunday for the seventh annual Blessing of the Fleet ceremonies held on the steps of the U. S. Coast Guard station under the auspices of the Holy Name Society of Mother of Sorrows Roman Catholic Church.

The Rev. James R. Hennessy, pastor, prayed for the protection of ships and sailors on the Great Lakes and then toured the harbor in a tug, blessing the docks, the lighthouse, ore carriers and other ships getting ready for the 1957 lake season.

They rooms are heated by a "hibachi", a tiny charcoal brazier that isn't much improvement over the type of heating devices used in feudal Europe and the Orient 500 years ago.

THE FAMILY must fight food poisoning and other diseases that strike foreigners unaccustomed to the contaminated produce and water. The Stewarts have two sons, one four years old, the other only 16 months.

To beat the primitive living in the "atomic village," the California family make a week-end trek into Tokyo. There they take a room in a western-style hotel to warm up and then head for a restaurant to get a regular meal.

The "atomic age" may be just around the corner in some places, but for the time being, the Stewarts will settle for some plain, old-fashioned American style comforts—1957 style.

Judges Seek Facts In Divorce Cases

How does a judge determine the facts in a divorce or alimony case so that he is able to decide the issues presented in an intelligent fashion? It is fundamental that the decision of the court is never any better than the accuracy and reliability of the facts upon which the decision rests.

Unless the judge has a true picture of the total family relationship, his decision will be unrealistic and even harmful to the parties involved and their children.

As in all other litigated matters, the court depends exclusively upon evidence as presented by the testimony of witnesses to learn the details of a case.

In negligence cases for example, such as an automobile collision suit, eyewitnesses to the accident are called by the parties to testify as to what they saw and heard. Such witnesses are ordinarily total strangers to either of the litigants.

THEIR TESTIMONY is generally reliable because they are disinterested in the outcome of the case. They owe no personal obligation to the party for whom they are called upon to testify; nor is there any reason why they should try to harm the other party by exaggerating or testifying falsely against him.

This is not ordinarily the situation in divorce and alimony cases. On the contrary, witnesses in such cases are usually the best friends and relatives of the litigants. In fact, they have usually taken definite sides in the marital conflict long before the suit has been filed.

At best, such testimony is prejudiced. At worst, it is deliberately perjured.

In either event, such evidence is wholly unreliable. Yet the Court must decide such vital issues as custody for minor children, visitation rights and support money.

Furthermore, most cases come before the Court on an uncontested basis. This means that the only party to appear in court for the final hearing is the petitioner himself. The other spouse simply refuses to come into court to offer a defense or to state his case against the other party. The court is thus dependent solely upon the unchallenged, self-serving testimony of the petitioner and his biased witnesses to determine the facts.

As early as 1938 the Ohio Legislature attempted to correct this obvious defect by enacting a law which gave the Court the power to order an investigation to be made by the officer of the Court in any case in which the judge believed he could not otherwise learn the true facts. However, investigations under this statute were on a wholly optional basis, with the result that many cases were disposed of without benefit of investigation, especially in uncontested cases.

THE SUCCESS of these investigations can be gauged by the enactment in 1951 of the present revised statute which makes investigations compulsory in all cases of divorce and alimony in which there are children under the age of 14 years.

Investigators not only function as impartial fact-finding agents of the Court, but they also seek to determine the basic cause of marital discord in each case and attempt to aid the parties toward a realistic understanding of their problems. By consultation with both parties—and in special problems—by referral to specialists in related fields, it is the ultimate aim of the Court investigator to aid the parties in avoiding divorce and in finding instead the basis for a lasting reconciliation.

AMNESIA VICTIM Harold Davidson, 45, is comforted by his sister-in-law, Mrs. Alberta Davidson, in a Long Beach, Calif., motel after a mysterious phone call to his home in Brighton, Colo., enabled police to find him. He had been missing since Feb. 19, and did not recognize his sister-in-law. He was believed to have been carrying $2,500 when he disappeared. He had $1,000 when located. (International)

Cincinnati Rubber Plants Struck

CINCINNATI (AP)—Picket lines went up around B. F. Goodrich Co. rubber plants today after time ran out on negotiations here for a new contract.

The strike affects about 14,000 United Rubber Workers in nine Goodrich plants.

Company and union negotiators worked through to just before the midnight strike deadline Sunday night before quitting the sessions without agreement. Neither company nor union representatives would give an inkling of what the issues are.

State, County Delinquent Taxes Show Climb Over Past Years

For the first time in 16 years, the grand total of delinquent taxes owed by Ohioans showed an upturn in 1956, State Auditor James A. Rhodes reports.

At the end of 1956, the total of all delinquent real estate taxes, special assessments, public utility and personal taxes was $39,953,525, according to settlement sheets filed with Rhodes by county auditors. The total at the end of 1955 was $39,230,946.

Pickaway county listed tax delinquencies of $55,861 in real estate taxes, $1,184 in special assessments and $13,994 in personal taxes.

The increase of $722,579 in the state is small in relation to the total of taxes paid, but it is the first time since 1941 that the downward trend in tax delinquency has been reversed.

NON-PAYMENT of current real estate and personal taxes accounts for the increase.

Taxpayers continued to whittle away last year at delinquent taxes for prior years, reports show. They reduced the total of old real estate taxes from $14,352,754 in 1955 to $13,857,254 in 1956. Delinquent special assessments were cut from $9,049,309 in 1955 to $7,627,684 in 1956.

At the same time, current real estate taxes that went on the delinquent list increased from $7,849,288 in 1955 to $8,945,608 in 1956, and current personal taxes unpaid jumped from $8,154,070 in 1955 to $9,522,979 in 1956.

Delinquent taxes that make up the 1956 total of $39,953,525 were: Real estate and public utility taxes delinquent, $22,802,862; special assessments delinquent, $7,627,684; tangible and intangible personal taxes delinquent, $9,522,979.

Today's tax delinquency is a far cry from the depression total of $209,771,429 in 1936 when taxpayers owed $113,241,698 in delinquent real estate taxes; $82,680,284 in delinquent special assessments, and $13,849,447 in delinquent personal taxes.

ATOMIC ENGINEER LIVES IN FUTURE AND ALSO THE PAST!

Stewart opens a parts crate in the "atomic village" as several of his aides look on.

Tokyo, Japan — For part of his day, Robert C. Stewart of Los Angeles, Calif., moves in the complex world of atomic energy. When he goes home at night, though, he and his family suddenly find themselves living under conditions almost primitive in nature.

This strange, double life comes about through Stewart's job as a special engineer assigned to direct construction of Japan's first nuclear reactor. This atomic research power plant was designed by Stewart's company, Atomic International of Canoga, Calif.

Last winter, Stewart was sent to Japan by the firm to supervise assembly of the giant 50 kilowatt "water boiler" type reactor. Delivery of the plant was the first such commercial transaction between the United States and a foreign country.

The atomic fuel to be used in the reactor also is the first leased under a recent export license granted by the U. S. Atomic Energy commission to Japan.

At night, though, Stewart returns to his quarters where his family finds conditions some distance away from being the most modern, let alone atomic-powered.

Their rooms are heated by a "hibachi," a tiny charcoal brazier that isn't much improvement over the type of heating devices used in feudal Europe and the Orient 500 years ago.

Rather than heat an entire room, the "hibachi" is designed to be used under a blanket. A family will huddle around it with their hands and feet virtually on top of the weakly glowing coals with the rest of their bodies exposed to the cold.

The traditional Japanese house with its thin, wooden slat walls and paper sliding doors is quite picturesque. However, the Stewarts have found this type of dwelling to be no deterrent to the bitterly cold winds that sweep down across Japan much of the year.

"We have a couple of gas heaters now," Stewart says, "but they

Westinghouse Cuts Back To 4-Day Week

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Westinghouse Electric Corp.'s major appliance plant here begins operating on a four-day week today to cut expenses.

A plant spokesman said the curtailment in production will continue "until general market conditions warrant a return to a five-day week."

Westinghouse also said an additional 300 production employees at its Mansfield plant will be "furloughed" beginning Thursday. A spokesman said this would bring to a total of 965 employees who have been laid off there temporarily since March 4.

In Columbus, the company manufactures refrigerators, freezers, dishwashers and combination washer-dryers. The Mansfield plant makes automatic washers, clothes dryers, electric ranges, irons, toasters, roasters, fry pans and other non-motorized portable appliances.

The company said the layoffs and four-day week were necessitated by over-production.

Ashtabula Sees Lake Fleet Blessed

ASHTABULA (AP)—About 1,000 persons met at the harbor here Sunday for the seventh annual Blessing of the Fleet ceremonies held on the steps of the U. S. Coast Guard station under the auspices of the Holy Name Society of Mother of Sorrows Roman Catholic Church.

The Rev. James R. Hennessy, pastor, prayed for the protection of ships and sailors on the Great Lakes and then toured the harbor in a tug, blessing the docks, the lighthouse, ore carriers and other ships getting ready for the 1957 lakes season.
